In Brief...

Lions go over the top again

The Romulus Lions Club went "over the top" again this year as they successfully held another White Cane Week collection drive.

"Even with the cost of everything going up, the electric, the gas, telephone and even the food, the citizens — men, women and young adults — gave unselfishly to the White Cane drive," said Lion Club President John Brimble.

"And we are very grateful. As members of the Romulus Lions Club, we are very proud of the citizens of Romulus," he said. The money that was collected will go to help the visually handicapped citizens of Romulus. It will also help the leader dog school, Pendricton Center, Welcome Home for the Blind and many other Lion-sponsored projects.

School officials to address Romulus residents

Romulus residents will get to hear the president of the teachers' union and Romulus Schools' Director of Instruction at a 7 p.m. meeting tomorrow night at the Public Library, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

Terry Bird, president of the Romulus Education Association, will speak on the teachers' needs and how they relate to good education.

Asst. Supt. Marvin Fischer, director of instruction for Romulus Community Schools, has been asked to outline the needs for additional millage at the June 13 election.

The sessions sponsored by "We The People", a newly-formed nonpartisan civic group, "This is another in our continuing attempt to get accurate information to the people," said acting president Richard Campbell.

"Our last meeting was a big success when Dave Krause, Romulus City Tax Assessor, gave a very enlightening talk on the tax structure."

Campbell said a question and answer period will be held after the speeches by Bird and Fischer.

North Junior High sets Concert date

Romulus North Junior High's Spring Concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the school gymnasium, 37300 Wick Rd. The Concert and Symphonic bands, under the leadership of Band Director Dick Kruse, will play a variety of musical selections to suit everyone's taste.

Among the Concert Band's numbers will be "Nadia's Theme" and "Blue Rock". The Symphonic Band will play "The Peanut Vendor" and a medley of TV hit show themes, including "Welcome Back, Kotter", "Laverne and Shirley" and "Happy Days".

New Boston Horse show set

The New Boston Rotary Club is sponsoring an open horse show. It will be held Sunday, June 12 at Rushlow's Arabians on Bredow Rd., corner of Middlebelt.

The show will start at 9 a.m. with Sally Pelton judging. Entry fees will be $2 per event and $4 for the tandem event.

Proceeds will go to the various charities and organizations sponsored by the club.

"We're right at the crossroads now and need all the publicity we can get to make the show a success," said Vice-President Stan Dzielski. "The Belleville Enterprise and Romulus Roman have always helped us greatly in the past and can make the difference between us being a success or not."

"We're grateful for the community-minded spirit of Associated Newspapers, owner of the papers."

Dzielski not only invited the public, but encouraged them to take an active part in the planned open horse show.

Frustration in evidence

Board teachers talking again

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus teachers are happy, but cautious, now that the School Board has resumed negotiations with them.

Schools were open every day last week and only the "Fuel Pump" flu, which hit 33 of 53 bus drivers Monday of last week caused any interruption of classes.

Approximately 100 teachers continued their "informational picketing" at the May 23 school board meeting, as they strolled back and forth in front of the administration building.

Inside, the meeting room was full to overflowing and the public questioned the school board sharply on how much effort it had made in trying to bargain with the teachers. When questioning got hot and heavy over Supt. James Garfield and the school board members' trip to Houston, School Board President Carl Morris abruptly shut off public discussion after approximately 35 minutes.

The School Board held an executive session (private meeting) on May 22 to discuss its next steps and board member Jack Bath was seen leaving the meeting early, apparently very unhappy.

Romulus Education Association President Terry Bird got a phone call from Garfield Sunday evening, saying the board wanted to resume negotiations with the teachers' union.

When Bath didn't show up for the regular board meeting on May 23, some observers thought he might still be upset.

However, Garfield explained that Bath had notified the board he would not be able to attend Monday and was excused from the meeting. When asked if Bath was mad when he left the Sunday executive session, Garfield replied, "I don't think he was really mad, I think that all of the discussions back and forth and the unsettling nature of this whole situation may have gotten him a little upset."

The school board and teachers negotiated three times last week, Monday, Thursday and Friday, and were scheduled to meet with a state mediator today (Wednesday).

The school board has reportedly offered the teachers a two per cent increase and Garfield says the outlook is brighter. "At this point, we're much closer. We can't predict what we have financially at this time (a millage vote is scheduled for June 13) but the attitude seems to be more positive on both sides of the table and that is good," Garfield said.

Bird assessed the situation this way. "We hope this is an honest attempt to reach agreement before school closes. A cost of living provision will be main issue."

"This week's movement is a step in the right direction, but it's coming a little late. If this movement had come after the March 19 election, as promised, morale would have remained higher and possibly some of the difficulties could have been avoided."

Two other developments took place recently. The School Board reached a tentative two-year agreement with the Association of School Building Administrators, which includes all Romulus principals, assistant principals and program directors.

Also, Romulus teachers voted almost 95 per cent to join the new "Super union" that plans to unite 21 Wayne County school districts into one bargaining unit. Also joining the Wayne-MEA-NEA, all overwhelmingly, were Allen Park, Lincoln Park, Westwood, Southgate and Redford Union.

Party is slated for court repair

Romulus youngsters will have a new basketball court to practice, on if a millionaire's party next Saturday proves successful.

Billed as a fund-raiser in the name of John Long, All-state high school forward and star for the University of Detroit "Titans," the event will be sponsored by the Romulus Civic League at 7 p.m. June 4, at the Civic League Hall, 11495 Wahrman.

Called one of the greatest basketball players to ever come out of the Romulus public school system, Long learned to play the game on local courts as a child. Since basketball apparatus was removed from the elementary school playground, where Long learned his trade. Today's youngsters have had no place to practice.

The new basketball court will be installed on Civic League property, according to Gilbert Baker, league president. He commented, "The intention of the Civic League is to provide a place for recreational opportunities for area youth and this is the biggest effort we have ever made to realize this goal."

An account of Long being honored during Michigan Week festivities in Romulus was placed in the Congressional Record May 12 by Cong. William Ford (D-15).

Included in the text of Ford's remarks was the following excerpt: "I am proud to bring the story of this young athlete to the attention of my colleagues, and I am inserting at this point in the Record an article from the Romulus Roman of April 13, which outlines his accomplishments."

Long was presented with a plaque by David J. Willett, owner and publisher of Associated Newspapers, during a banquet held at the Ramada Inn to celebrate Government Day in the eight-day Michigan Week celebration.

Tickets to the millionaire's party can be obtained at City Hall, Civic League Hall, Department of Public Works, Zeco's Party Store and Steven's Pharmacy. Price of tickets is $2.50 each.

The 'Hoop' is coming

There will be a "John Long Fund Raiser" at 7 p.m. Saturday night at Romulus Civic League Hall, 11495 Wahrman. Proceeds will build a basketball court on the Romulus Civic League property to enable area children to play basketball. Eyeing a worn-out backboard and hoop are Gilbert Baker, president of the Romulus Civic League, (from left), David Earle, 14; Jeff Beaumont, 16; Daniel Frazier, 14; and Tony Earle, 15. "The intention of the Civic League is to provide a place for recreational opportunities for area youth and this is the biggest effort we have ever made to realize this goal," said Baker.

Meet the candidates night is set

Romulus residents will have a chance to meet and question the three candidates who are running for two four-year seats on the school board.

The "Meet the School Candidates" night will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the public library, 11111 Wayne Rd.

Sponsored by "We the People", a new nonpartisan civic group, the meeting will give incumbent Mrs. Gloria Chandler, William Kemp and Wayne Avery a chance to deliver a short speech and then all three will take part in a question and answer session. "This type of informational meeting is in line with the aim and purpose of "We the People", said Richard Campbell, recently elected acting president of the group.

"We believe this meeting with the candidates will help us all to be better informed when we vote in the annual June 13 election."

Not running for the first time in 30 years, except for a two-year period, is Carl Morris, President of the school board and a prominent Romulus businessman long active in civic functions.

"It's time to retire," explained Morris when questioned as to his reasons for giving up the long-held post.

The 61-year-old Morris is chairman of the board of the Huron Valley Oil Co., a corporation he formed with his son and a business partner many years ago. He has been associated with the oil business for 26 years.

"I want to take some time off and do some of the things I haven't been able to do the past few years," said Morris, who has 20 continuous years of service with the Wayne County Intermediate School Board.

He is one of two representatives for five years from Romulus to the People's Community Hospital Authority and also has been co-chairman for eight years on the federal legislative committee of the Michigan Association of School Boards.

"It seems Carl has a meeting almost every evening somewhere," Mrs. Morris laughed recently. "I'm glad he's served like he has, but it'll be nice to be able to spend more time with him."

The public is invited to "Meet the School Candidates Night".

'Fuel Pump' flu' victims

Last week's one-day bus driver's "Fuel Pump Flu" caused Romulus school children to find other means of transportation. When 33 of 53 Romulus school bus drivers called in sick Monday, attendance was cut to approximately 50 percent in elementary schools, according to reports. Mt. Pleasant School was one of the schools affected and Principal Terrel M. LeCesne said the school had never faced the experience before. LeCesne is shown here as children are picked up by parents after school and others are directed across the street by school teachers.

To beat inflation's bite

Cawthorne would amend tax relief act

House Republican Leader Dennis O. Cawthorne (R-Muskegon) has introduced legislation to amend the state's Homestead Property Tax Relief Act, saying that "inflation now is robbing many senior citizens and handicapped persons of the benefits intended for them four years ago when the original act was passed."

Cawthorne's bill would increase by $1,000 the income levels and property values which entitle homeowners and renters to credits under the "circuit breaker" concept embodied in the 1973 legislation.

'...I do not think sound fiscal policy should include the erosion of property tax credits...'

"These increases will restore benefits to the relative levels of four years ago," he said. "The circuit breaker approach to easing property tax burdens on low and fixed income persons is one of the great achievements of Gov. Milliken and the legislature in recent years. We must now continue the good this law has done by modifying it to meet present financial conditions."

The circuit breaker provides tax relief by allowing refunds of all or part of homestead property taxes when they exceed a percentage of the taxpayers' household income.

According to Cawthorne: "As Social Security and pension benefits and wage scales have climbed due to cost-of-living adjustments, some persons have become disqualified for the benefits, even though their need for relief is as great or greater than it was when the law was enacted."

to $4,500 and $5,500 respectively. Cawthorne estimates the increased property tax relief would cost the state's general fund less than $10 million.

"I consider this a priority issue, and I do not think sound fiscal policy should include the erosion of property tax credits available to those people with the lowest incomes in our state," he concluded.

Associated tours to travel to Opyrland, Greek isles

Associated Newspapers reminds its readers of two upcoming tours it is sponsoring under the direction of Gene Wertz, circulation director.

Scheduled are tours Aug. 27-29 to Opyr Land in Nashville, Tenn. and Oct. 4-11 to Greece and the famous Grecian Island.

In Nashville, tourists will visit both the Grand Ol' Opry and Opyr Land, plus go on a special tour to Music City. The three-day tour will have room for 51 persons with first class accommodations at a total cost of $245 per person double occupancy.

The eight-day tour to Greece will afford travelers a view of scenery unrivaled anywhere, according to Wertz, who has conducted tours for the last 20 years to all parts of the United States and the world.

Cost of the Grecian tour is $1,018 per person, double occupancy. Included is a three-day cruise of the Grecian Islands aboard the Stella Maris, a Greek luxury liner.

Early Greeks were the pioneers of tourism, venturing out to sea in their sailing craft not only to trade but to see and learn. The Greek peninsula has a population of about 9,000,000 people and consists of mainland Greece and the hundreds of picturesque islands off the coast.

The small group of the Ionian Islands is Greece's link with Europe, forming the country's western boundary. In sharp contrast, a large number of islands are in the Aegean Sea, some of which are isolated, like Crete in the south and Samos, Chios and Lesbos in the east, and Thassos and Samothraki in the north.

Other islands are grouped in clusters, such as the Cyclades, the Sporades and The Dodecanese. The largest Greek islands are Crete and Euboea.

Variety is the dominant feature of the Greek terrain. Travelers will see the tall mountain ranges such as the Pindus, often called "the backbone of Greece," Mt. Olympus and the mountains of Macedonia and Thrace, separated by valleys fed by small rivers.

The highly broken and indented coastline lends unusual beauty to the Greek landscape. Underwater scenery abounds, for the Greek seabed millions of years ago was part of the mainland. Close to Cape Tainaron in the Peloponnese is what is known as the Oinoussai Pit, the deepest point in the Mediterranean Sea.

The variety of plant life in Greece almost defies the imagination, including the world-famous Grecian vineyards. Trees, for the most part, are pine, oak, first, olive, mulberry and various kinds of fruit and palm.

Greece's geographical position between the European and African continents makes for mild winters and sub-tropical summers cooled by a system of breezes known as meltemia. The most outstanding feature of the Greek climate are the long hours of sunshine. Some have estimated that Greece enjoys as much as 3,000 hours of sunshine per year.

For additional information on the two tours, call Wertz at the ANP office, 729-4000 or at his home in the evening, 561-4191.

Commissioners reject SST landings at Metro

Expressing agreement with seven communities near the Detroit-Wayne County Metropolitan Airport, a committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has recommended against supersonic transport (SST) aircraft traffic.

In a meeting, May 11, the board's Public Works Committee considered resolutions from the various communities, which object to excessive noise and air pollution purported in SST landings and departures. Among the protesting cities are Romulus, Ecorse and Westland and the townships of Brownstown, Huron and Van Buren.

The resolutions state that SST aircraft are said to be "excessively noisy and emit a far greater amount of fumes than do conventional aircraft" that currently use the Western Wayne County facility.

The objections of the communities involved may be far in advance of considerations by the airport operators, according to suggestions from Charles VanDeusen, assistant managing director of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Operation of the airport is under jurisdiction of the road commission, appointed by the Board of Commissioners.

VanDeusen at the meeting said the road commission has not requested permission to allow SST landings, and that he was unaware of any airline request for stops by supersonic planes.

He also pointed out that, although pollution tests are underway, no SST plane yet meets federal criteria for noise and air pollution, and that officials at Metro Airport would not consider allowing SST landing privileges until these regulations are met.

Stone: He fits the image, likes the job

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

No one fits the image of a judge nor likes his work any better than Judge James B. Stone, senior administrator of justice of the 34th District Court.

Any Hollywood casting director looking for someone to portray a judge in a movie would have to look no further than Stone. The highly-esteemed, white-haired adjudicator is ideally suited to his calling.

"I've never once been sorry that I became a judge," Stone told a group of visiting Belleville High School students recently. "I guess the most difficult part of my job is sentencing those who come before me. It's a tough choice many times whether to give them probation, a 1-year sentence or somewhere in-between."

Stone has been judge of the 34th District Court, which serves the communities of Romulus, Belleville, Huron, Van Buren and Sumpter, since April 1969 when he was appointed. District courts were started in January 1969 and assumed work formerly done by Justices of the Peace and municipal courts.

"District courts were started for better administration of justice," Stone said. "Some who handled cases before that were non-lawyers and District courts have worked out well."

The judge is especially pleased that the 34th District Court will soon have a brand new $1 million home on Wayne Road in the Civic Center by Romulus City Hall. Ground was broken recently for the new facility and is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Judge Henry Zaborowski, who was elected to serve alongside Stone in 1974, is also highly thought of and especially happy over the new court building.

The two judges say that conditions are deplorable in the dilapidated 75-year-old white frame building which presently houses the court on Ecorse Road in Romulus.

"We've often wondered who would win the race to get the building first — the termites or the bulldozers." Stone has said on several occasions, much to the delight of his listeners. But behind the humorous remark lies the truth.

"Employees have to work under deplorable conditions," Stone explained. "Henry has a portable

'I've never once been sorry...'

JUDGE JAMES B. STONE

school room added on the back of the building to hear his cases. It has a metal roof and when the wind blows too hard, it vibrates and sounds like kettle drums. Cases have to be adjourned.

"There's no adequate storage space. Hundreds of files are stored on the enclosed front porch. To get their coats or use the restrooms, employees have to go through the courtroom or go outside and come in the other door," Stone said.

Except for a 5-year flying stint in the Air Force from 1940 to 1945, Stone worked for 32 years for the Wayne County Clerk's office. He began in the old County Building in Detroit in 1937 and moved to the City-County Building when it opened in 1955.

Stone gets even more ecstatic when he describes the new court under construction.

"There will be two courtrooms with two judges' chambers. Also, there'll be adequate clerical space and space for probation officers. Right now, our probation officer's desk is in a former closet."

Traffic cases make up 60 percent of the work at 34 District Court, with civil cases and small claims making up the rest. In civil cases, the court processes lawsuits in which money judgments are sought up to $10,000. In criminal cases, Stone and Zaborowski handle cases where maximum sentence is one year.

Stone was asked if he had ever been threatened by someone he had sentenced. "Yes, several times. I've been run off the road, my life has been threatened and sand has been put in my gas tank. Also, although my phone number is unlisted, a few have called me in the middle of the night to tell me what they think of me."

Despite all of that, Judge Stone wouldn't change jobs with anybody.

"I find being a judge very rewarding from a personal standpoint. Sometimes I find myself getting emotionally involved, but the vast majority of the cases, I strive to do what is best for the defendant and society as a whole," he explained. "It's not an easy job, but it is very rewarding and fulfilling to me," the judge said.

Perhaps that is why Hollywood cast directors — as well as most of those brought before Judge Stone — would feel he is perfectly suited for his job.

THE ROMULUS ROMAN

June 1, 1977

Michigan Week: Was 8-day event a success?

The flags have been furled, the circus tent taken down, the exhibits packed up, the speeches made, the contests won and the dignitaries greeted. Michigan Week 1977 in Romulus is over.

So, now comes the time for evaluation. Was anything worthwhile accomplished? Did the experience touch any lives? Does anyone really care?

The answer, in a word, is yes.

Although the response to Romulus' first week-long observance of Michigan Week was uncertain, citizen involvement and participation was rated good to excellent by Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar, who coordinated the planning from City Hall.

Beginning in February, groups were contacted, meetings held and gradually, over the succeeding weeks, plans took shape for the 8-day event.

Finally, Community Pride Day — May 14 — arrived, and the Romulus Senior Citizens, one of the most involved and spirited groups in town, baked their cookies, tuned their instruments and generally had a delightful time under the tent erected on the City Hall grounds. The oldest citizens were honored in special presentations. Mrs. Stephenson, 102, was present for her award, as was William Bower, 94. Also honored were Mr. and Mrs. Burton who have been married for 66 years.

The next day was Heritage Day, the several area churches observed the occasion with special sermons, songs and teas, following the Sunday services.

On May 16, Mayor Jesse P. Miller and Mayor James Stewart officially exchanged places to learn about each other's problems, programs and promises. The highlight of the morning was the viewing of a slide program depicting Romulus' past, present and future, especially produced for Miller's visit. Other City departments reported on their successes, including presentations by the city assessor, community development director, fire chief and directors of the Romulus Help Center, Housing Commission and Neighborhood Center.

That evening, John Long was honored at the Mayor's dinner, in accordance with a City Council resolution commending Long, a Romulus High School graduate, for his accomplishments as a starting forward with the University of Detroit basketball team.

On World Trade Day, city residents, administrators and council members were treated to a tour of Detroit Metropolitan Airport, which included stops at the International Terminal, the airport fire station, cargo area and radar room.

It also provided an opportunity for city leaders to meet with airport authorities over lunch to freely discuss matters of mutual interest and concern.

During Livelihood Day, the tent at City Hall was again filled, this time with fascinating and varied displays from Romulus' leading industries. The city parking lot was the staging area for several special vehicles, including giant earth movers, fire engines, sweepers, diesel trucks and engines.

On May 19, 25 select students from high school government classes visited City Hall to observe Education Day. They played the roles of city administrators and elected officials and ably demonstrated their grasp of how city government functions.

Throughout the week, Romulus elementary school students studied topics in all subject areas, relating to Michigan, as well as performing in concerts, hosting open houses and special fairs and competing in academic contests.

Drawing the work week to a close was Hospitality Day and the city's hotels and banks responded with banners, buttons and baskets of fruit, serving special "Michiganander" drinks and greeting all customers with an extra "Welcome to Michigan Week" smile.

May 21, was the grand finale dedicated to the City's youth, and more than 500 youngsters turned out for a myriad of contests and entertainment that saw George Butler ride 20 miles in 44 minutes to win the bicycle marathon and two young couples tie for the dance marathon, being forced to stop after 12 hours of non-stop bumping. There were all shapes and sizes of pets paraded, a magic show, skate board contest, miniature ferris wheel, ping pong tournament and the Keystone Band emerging victorious in a final "battle of the bands."

What do the city and its citizens have to show as a result of Michigan Week besides bills, headaches and sunburn?

A few tangible assets include a valuable 16-page souvenir edition of The Romulus Roman, distributed free of charge throughout the city; a new slide program to show potential investors in Romulus; an information-response card initiated during the week and designed to facilitate greater citizen input to City Hall.

But perhaps just as notably, a renewed sense of community pride and a rekindled spirit of cooperation between area businesses, churches, city officials and residents in having worked together to make Michigan Week a success. Judged by those accomplishments, it must be conceded by all, that indeed, Michigan Week in Romulus was a resounding success.

Happiness is . . .

Students at Gordonier Elementary School in Romulus were thrilled when Farmer Webster visited with his animals from Upland Farms. Among the visitors he brought with him were goats, cows, pigs, lambs and other animals. Farmer Webster takes his traveling farm show to many schools in the area and the results are always predictable — excited, happy youngsters. Below, Heather Beddingfield holds the little piggy who didn't go to market. Denise Feliciano gets the treat of feeding a lamb held by Farmer Webster. The program was sponsored by the PTA of Gordonier Elementary School.—ANP photo.

Help is phone call away

If you have reason to believe that your child is not developing normally, free help is as close as your telephone.

Currently, the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children (MSCCA) and Communities United for Action (CUFA) have combined forces in seeking out families of children from birth through 16 years of age who may have various types of physical and mental disorders.

Romulus and Sumpter Township are included in eight communities in which free evaluation, diagnosis, treatment and follow-up are provided at the MSCCA clinic at 17330 Schaefer in Detroit.

The two groups are faced with a twofold task: First, identification of children with developmental disabilities, and second, beginning of comprehensive treatment for the children in his or her family.

Both organizations are seeking assistance from every available quarter in their search for afflicted youngsters.

Clues to abnormal child development are explained by Frank Lendzion, psychologist and public health consultant for MSCCA.

"If your 3-month-old child has problems following a moving object with his eyes, if he does not have good head control at 6 months, if he is unable to say even the simplest word by the time he is about a year old, he may be exhibiting some early signs of a developmental lag that may denote a more serious problem," he said. "Many physical, mental and psychological deficits are not easily recognized."

"However, if the problem is identified soon enough, the result is often complete recovery. Most parents fail to realize the seriousness of developmental problems and their children suffer needlessly."

A pamphlet entitled, "Guide to the Developing Child," is available to families in the eight communities. Interested families are urged to call MSCCA and CUFA offices at 341-4900 and 292-2110 respectively.

To further assist parents who suspect their child is not developing normally, the MSCCA professional staff has scheduled a series of meetings with parents in the eight communities.

In Romulus, the meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. July 12 at City Hall, Community Room, 1111 Wayne Road, and in Sumpter Township at 1 p.m. July 19 at the Prescad Clinic, annex building, 24101 Sumpter Road.

Concert will benefit Renton Scholarship

A "Music Festival Benefit Concert" is on tap for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Huron High School's new auditorium.

Proceeds from the concert will go towards the Carl T. Renton Scholarship Fund.

Featured in the concert will be

Jack Ripley, Michigan's stuttering comedian and song writer, The Crossmen Gospel Singers, a country band called "Country Feeling" and the rock band "Aftermath".

Pickin' Music USA will present a Yamaha guitar and case to some lucky concertgoer that evening.

Tickets for the benefit concert are available by calling any Huron school offices or Pickin' Music USA at 753-4013. Tickets also will be sold at the door. They cost $2.50 per person.

The school is located at 32044 Huron River Drive, New Boston.

Biking in Michigan

Picturesque towns dot St. Clair River

(This is the second in a series of 15 weekly articles on bicycle touring through Michigan. These features are designed to encourage Michigan tourism and promote bicycling near population centers.)

A scenic bicycle tour through portions of Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair counties rolls over hills, past farms, through picturesque towns and along the St. Clair River, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The 165-mile tour includes Bloomfield Hills, Rochester, Utica, Mount Clemens and the riverside towns of Algonac, Marine City, St. Clair and Port Huron.

Parks and recreation areas are available for rest stops and picnics at all of the towns. Hotels and motels along the route are convenient for overnight stops. Algonac State Park on the St. Clair River has overnight camping, showers and picnic facilities.

The suggested tour can be divided into three scenic segments.

Focal point of the 37-mile, western-most segment is Cranbrook, a 300-acre Bloomfield Hills cultural center composed of five educational institutions, a mansion with spacious gardens and a church. From Woodward Avenue, go west on Cranbrook Road and turn right on Lone Pine Road at Gothic Christ Church Cranbrook. Pass Cranbrook House and Gardens are the Academy of Art Museum and Cranbrook Institute of Science. All welcome visitors, but schedules vary and some charge admission.

Bloomer State Park, a unit of sprawling Rochester-Utica Recreation Area, is a 15-mile trip from Cranbrook. From Lone Pine, go right on Lahser Road and head east on Long Lake Road and turn left on Kensington. Merge with Opdyke Boulevard to John R. Travel north through the trees on John R. for three miles to reach Bloomer Park. Return to the Birmingham-Bloomfield area via Avon Road (23 Mile Road), Dequindre, Parkdale, Walton Boulevard and Opdyke Road. Points of interest are the Yates Cider Mill on the Clinton River at 23 Mile and Dequindre, the City of Rochester and its park, Meadow Brook Hall, Oakland University and Pontiac's Silverdome Stadium.

A 40-mile loop from Utica to Mount Clemens, returning via Gratiot and 23 Mile Road, follows the Clinton River for eight miles along Clinton River Road to Cass Road and into Mount Clemens. Cross Gratiot onto Crocker Boulevard, which leads to Metropolitan Parkway and into Metro Beach Metropark.

A marked bicycle trail begins at the Metropark entrance and travels through the facility all the way to Pointe Huron picnic grounds.

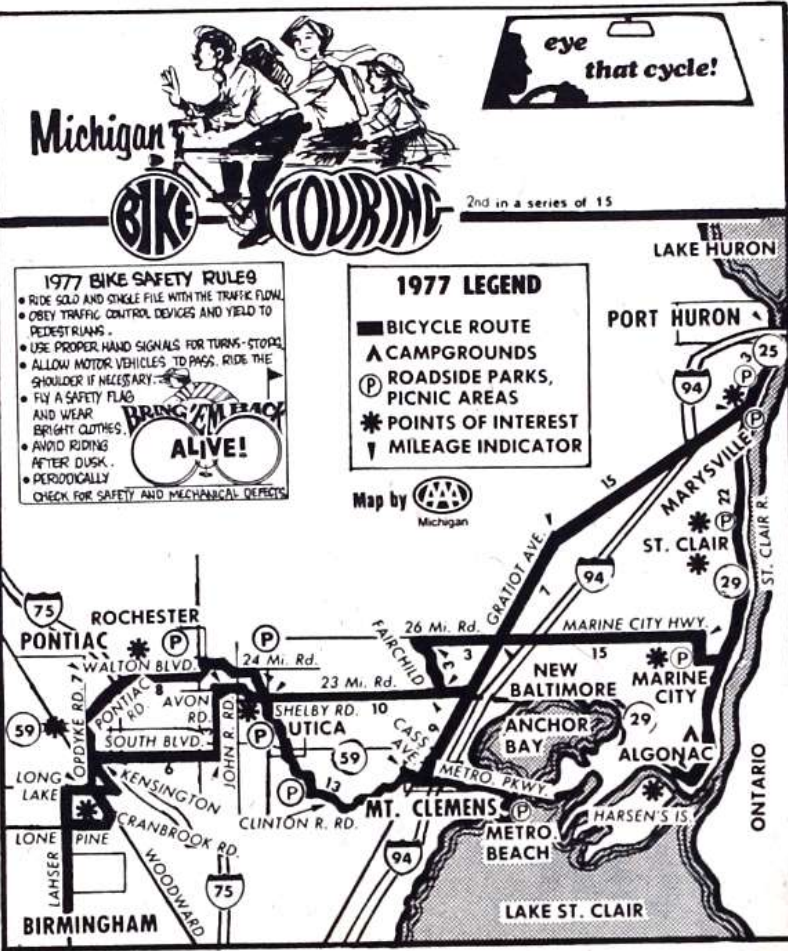

Leave Mount Clemens on Gratiot (M-3-M-59), which has wide, paved shoulders. Wheel northeast on Gratiot through six miles of flat, open country to 23 Mile Road. Follow 23 Mile Road west for 10 miles of pleasant cycling through farm country to Shelby Road and a 3-mile ride into Utica, passing the Rochester-Utica Recreation Area's main facility.

The Mount Clemens-Port Huron circle tour, which can run as much as 95 miles or as little as 70 miles, depending on which portions are covered travel through towns, farm country and along the scenic St. Clair River.

If beginning at Mount Clemens, follow Gratiot north out of Mount Clemens to Marine City Highway and follow it east to the water.

A pleasant 8-mile jaunt south along the St. Clair River on M-29 leads to Algonac, with its state park, the ferry to Harsen's Island, and Sid's and Port O' Call restaurants for refreshments or a good meal. Harsen's Island offers miles of good roads and views of Lake St. Clair and the Flats.

Among many attractions at Port Huron, where the St. Clair River opens into Lake Huron, are Lighthouse Park, with an old lighthouse to explore; Lakeside Park, for swimming and picnicking, and the Museum of Art and History at 1115 Sixth St., just off US-25 a half mile south of town.

Rolling hills, the Clinton and St. Clair rivers and lush rural areas highlight a 165-mile bicycle route linking Birmingham, Port Huron, Rochester, Utica and Mount Clemens. Bicyclists not wishing to take the whole tour can select from three shorter loops. A 37-mile tour covers the segment from Birmingham to Rochester and includes the Cranbrook institutions, Oakland University, Pontiac's Silverdome and Stony Creek Metropark. The 40-mile loop between Utica and Mount Clemens features the Clinton River, the Rochester-Utica Recreation Area and Metro Beach. The 95-mile circle trip between Mount Clemens and Port Huron offers 25 miles of scenic cycling along the St. Clair River through the picturesque towns of Algonac, Marine City and St. Clair. Automobile Club of Michigan notes that motels and inns are available for overnight stops, and there are good restaurants and parks for lunch and rest stops along those routes. Algonac State Park offers either rustic or modern camping sites for overnight stops.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Michigan Water Resources Commission
Box 30028
Lansing, Michigan 48909
517-373-3088

Date May 27, 1977
Permit Number:
MI 0022471

NOTICE: The Township of Brownstown presently has a valid National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (Public Law 92-500) Permit, issued June 6, 1975, to discharge treated municipal wastewater from its facility located at Section 14, T5S, R10E. The Township of Brownstown discharges its effluent to the Morrison Drain which is tributary to Silver Creek and the Huron River.

Said NPDES permit expires on June 30, 1977 at midnight. The permittee has reapplied for reissuance of the NPDES permit. Federal Law, 92-500 and State Law, Act 245, Public Act of 1929, as amended require that all publicly owned treatment facilities provide treatment commensurate with secondary treatment and capable of complying with the State's Water Quality Standards by July 1, 1977. It has been determined that the Applicant will not comply with this mandated requirement. The applicant has applied for a Federal Construction Grant, or is in a Plan of Study area of another grant applicant. Grants may be available for the construction of the necessary facilities, and the applicant has pursued the funding of this project with a good faith effort.

It is hereby noticed that on the basis of preliminary staff review and application of applicable standards and regulations the Michigan Water Resources Commission proposes to reissue the NPDES permit for the discharge subject to certain effluent limitations and special conditions.

It is further noticed that the Michigan Department of Natural Resources intends to initiate formal enforcement proceedings against the Applicant for its failure to comply with the July 1, 1977 date. The Department of Natural Resources will suspend these enforcement proceedings if the Applicant agrees, stipulates and consents to the entry of a Final Order of Determination which orders, directs, and requires the Applicant to adhere to and comply with all conditions of the new NPDES permit. Said Final Order of Determination further orders the Applicant to build the necessary treatment facilities and attain and maintain the operational level of these facilities to the extent necessary to meet the final effluent limitations specified in the new NPDES permit in accordance with the shortest feasible construction schedule predicated on the Federal Construction Grant Program.

It is further noticed that the completion of the necessary facilities will be after July 1, 1977.

The proposed determination to reissue the NPDES Permit is tentative. Persons wishing to comment upon, or object to, the proposed permit and Final Order are invited to submit the same in writing to:

Permit and Enforcement Coordinator
Water Quality Division
Dept. of Natural Resources
Box 30028
Lansing, Michigan 48909

The name of the permittee and permit number should appear next to the above address on the envelope and the first page of any submitted comments. All comments received within thirty (30) days of the date of issuance of this public notice will be considered in the formulation of the final determination. If no written objections are received and the permittee formally consents to the entry of the Order, the Michigan Water Resources Commission will issue its final determinations no later than sixty (60) days following the date of this notice.

The application, proposed permit and proposed Final Order, and other information, are on file and may be inspected at the Water Quality Division offices, 8th Floor, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan, and at the District Office located at R No. 3, 37205 Mouillee Road, Rockwood, at any time between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Copies of the Public Notice and corresponding Fact Sheet summarizing application information, proposed Final Order and proposed permit conditions are available at no charge. Copies of all other information are available at a cost of $.20 per page. Please bring the foregoing to the attention of persons whom you know would be interested in this matter.

Restaurant Review

Dining at Dunkin' Donuts

By BOB MEEN
ANP Staff Writer

When your taste buds signal it's soup time, you immediately think they won't be satisfied unless you go to an exclusive and expensive restaurant. Right?

Wrong! And the first person to tell you so will be Eddie Sanderson, owner of Dunkin' Donuts at 1625 Wayne Road, Westland. The second and third and fourth and umpteenth satisfied customer also will tell you so.

Dunkin' Donuts, a franchise operation in several locations throughout the Metro area, has been noted for their doughnuts and pastry products, featuring 52 varieties in all.

But, since last February, Dunkin' Donuts has introduced soups, one in all, to its customers. Sanderson said the new twist to their menu has proved quite popular and that "it's improving everyday."

A cup of soup (half-bowl) with crackers sell for 49 cents, but for those with more hearty appetite, the bowl at 79 cents and the soup bowl at 99 cents really fill the tummy.

A thick, hand-cut slice of Italian bread and butter is served with the 79-cent bowl of soup, while the 99-cent soup bowl offers Italian bread, butter, a doughnut and coffee.

As I finished my first bowl of sumptuous beef barley soup, two delicious slices of the Italian bread and butter, complete with chewy crust, and two soft drinks, Sanderson inquired if I wanted a refill, pointing to the sign above the counter.

Sure enough, in big black letters, I read that a free refill is offered with both the bowl and soup bowl of soup. I consider myself a big eater, but after the free refill, I was round-bellied and content, believe me!

Dunkin' Donuts uses 'Le Gout' soup, originated in France and known the world over, according to Sanderson, for its excellence. Two different soups are featured each day of the week. The nine varieties are chicken noodle, beef barley, bean, New England clam chowder, beef noodle, chili, fisherman's chowder, beef minestrone and chicken.

Sanderson, who took over the franchise last August, runs the operation with the help of his wife, Mary, and a staff of 15 persons.

When I asked if that wasn't a lot of people to employ for that type of establishment, Sanderson replied that he was open for business 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Refreshments available to Dunkin' Donut customers include coffee, Sanka, orange juice, milk and hot chocolate. The coffee is superb, made from coffee beans which are ground fresh daily right in front of your eyes.

The youthful owner, who began in the business 10 years ago cutting doughnuts, estimates that 700 customers frequent his place of business each day, with the number climbing to about 1,000 each on Saturdays and Sundays. He said that about 30 percent of his total business volume comes from takeout orders, usually doughnuts and coffee.

So, whether it's donuts or soup you're looking for, it's a pleasure to recommend Dunkin' Donuts as the place to go.

Ancient jewelry, figurines displayed at U-M museum

Ancient gold jewelry, carved stucco figurines, bronze tweezers, silver coins and the cosmetic pots are among the 180 objects on display through Sept. 15 at the University of Michigan Kelsey Museum of Ancient and Medieval Archaeology.

The exhibition, entitled "Seleucia on the Tigris", includes objects which date from 319 B.C. to 215 A.D. and were uncovered during U-M excavations in Iraq during 1927-32 and 1936-37. Most of the items are being exhibited for the first time.

Conceived and organized by U-M graduate student Elizabeth Savage, the exhibit is in memory of U-M classical art and archaeology Professor Clark Hopkins, who directed the university's final season of excavations at Seleucia in 1936-37. Hopkins died last year.

In addition to organizing the exhibition, Ms. Savage has authored a 6-page accompanying catalogue with illustrations, a preface, introduction, descriptive entries, and brief essays on the various categories of objects in the show.

Located 40 miles south of Baghdad, Seleucia on the Tigris was founded in 319 B.C. by Alexander the Great's general Seleucus Nicator. The city became an important center of trade, "in its heyday, a Hellenistic center the equal of Alexandria in Egypt", according to Ms. Savage.

"It had a far-flung trade which encompassed Afghanistan, India, Ceylon, Africa, and even the Baltic," she said. "Articles traded included jewels such as rubies, ambers and garnets, as well as ivory, pearls, iron, and gold."

"In 43 B.C. Seleucia came under the direct rule of the Parthians, a bellicose people from the Central Asian Steppes whose vast empire was matched only by Rome. At one time the Parthians even seized the standard of the Roman army in battle. After Sassanian and Islamic occupation in later periods, Seleucia ended up as an unimportant village."

Given this history of trade and foreign domination, Seleucia's minor arts represent an eclectic merge of East and West, according to Ms. Savage.

"At first, Seleucia's art was clearly Hellenistic, with Greek gods and floral motifs appearing on coins and in stucco," she explained. "Gradually, however, it evolved under the Eastern influence of the Parthians and indigenous people to become more clearly Eastern art, with abstract motifs and the depiction of warriors and kings."

Funded by the U-M and the Cleveland and Toledo museums of art, the excavations at Seleucia were among the first to employ aerial photography. U-M's team actually had been looking for the Biblical city of Opis, and began excavating Seleucia under the assumption that Opis lay beneath it.

"At that time (in the 1920s and '30s excavations took place on a grand scale with hundreds of workmen," Ms. Savage said. "And funds were available for an extended season. This is no longer the case. A large excavation today would employ half as many workmen. 'Tens of thousands of items were sent to the Kelsey Museum from Seleucia, with other artifacts sent to the museums of Toledo and Cleveland. The city still is not fully excavated. 'In the exhibition area, we will screen a series of slides taken from old photographs which show what it was like for American archaeologists working in Iraq in the 1930s. The photographs show the progression of work in the excavation area, living conditions and the people involved."

The Kelsey Museum is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and 1 to 4 p.m. weekends. Starting June 1, museum hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and 1 to 4 p.m. weekends.

An editorial opinion

Automatic property tax increase another 'Non-Decision'

Legislation approved by the Michigan Legislature, if signed by the Governor, will allow property tax increases without a prior vote of the people.

This legislation, which will apply only to communities that now levy less than 10 mills, will effect four Wayne County cities that have charter limitations on authorized tax levies.

Those four communities are: Taylor, 9.5 mills; Dearborn Heights, 8.5 mills; Livonia, 6 mills and Westland, 8 mills.

According to terms of the legislation (SB 250), property tax levies would be permitted to increase one mill annually, by an affirmative vote of the city council members, up to a maximum levy of 10 mills.

The only taxpayer recourse, in the event of a council-voted increase, would be to petition for a public referendum within 90 days.

Currently, operating under existing statutes, many communities with established charter limits on property tax levies, are already collecting more than those limits after other special millage items are added to the total bill.

Pension funds, PCHA, public safety, and sanitation to list a few, are funded by established millage earmarked for just those programs.

In Westland for example, there are 10 of these specially earmarked millage levies, that total 7.93 mills. When added to the general fund charter-limited millage of eight mills, the total of 15.93 mills is the actual amount homeowners in that city must pay.

It is quickly apparent then, that even though a city charter may limit the property tax levy, that limited levy may not apply to the total tax levy on the property owners.

When considering the merits of SB 250, it is necessary to understand the difference between a general fund millage rate and the specially earmarked millages.

Automatic property tax increases, as provided for in SB 250, will allow communities to circumvent their charter limitations on general fund millage rates.

It appears to us at Associated Newspapers, that this effort to gain millage increases without authorization by the citizens of the community is just another attempt by our elected leaders to shift responsibility for tax increases to the state, and thus they can claim no control, while hoping to reap the political benefits of new programs funded by those increased property taxes.

Like the politically popular pay boards that have transformed 'non-decision' to pay increases, legislation providing for automatic tax increases will allow elected officials to apply 'non-decision' to millage increases.

We feel that it is time for our elected officials to act in their capacity. It is their responsibility to make those 'tough' decisions, and stand before their constituents and be judged.

The developing trend in government toward less visible public officials portends an ominous future for this country.

We are all aware of the shortcomings of our democratic system. Some of those faults are at best, difficult to correct. But it is time for elected officials to lead the citizens in the effort to improve our system.

While many dedicated public officials spend long hours in the pursuit of improving the democratic process, others spend those same long hours in pursuit of personal gain.

We oppose approval of Senate Bill 250.

Passage of this legislation may indeed make a politician's life a little easier, but at a cost we cannot afford.

If the elected leaders of a community feel that the charter limitation for general fund tax levies is too low, they have now, as always, had the opportunity of going to the voters for approval of higher limit.

That is the way it was intended, that is the right way.

Circumventing the voters at every opportunity will spell the end for the best system ever developed for self government.

On the brighter side

June, a time for both new and 'better' brides

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

(Editor's Note: Some readers feel "Tribute to a Bride" is Jim Bradley's most touching column. The traditional wedding month of June is here. With that in mind, Jim dedicates this column to all those on the threshold of marriage as well as those who have already enjoyed its blessings. You may want to clip and save it).

Twenty-two years ago this Saturday — June 4, 1955 — I anxiously stood beside the minister and watched my lovely bride-to-be walk slowly down the center aisle.

In pure white flowing gown and crown, radiantly beautiful as only a bride can be, she joyfully approached the altar where we would soon be joined in eternal union. Familiar strains of the wedding march filled the hushed sanctuary as the organist's nimble fingers danced over the keys.

Handkerchiefs dabbed away reluctant tears. Teenage girls smiled expectantly at each other and craned their necks to catch a glimpse of the slowly moving white-clad princess.

This princess was dressed in white — a tribute to the purity she brought to our marriage — and in her hand she held a fragrant bouquet of flowers. The bouquet was like a magic wand that has blessed these married years with happiness.

Twenty-two years ago this week — it seems but yesterday — I took my wife "til death us do part". She's brought to my life a gentle touch and guiding hand to help raise three teenage sons. Besides her sweet charm and efficiency, her usual tranquil nature is subdued by life's compelling needs.

Whatever she touches seems to bear the distinct mark of success. A glowing light among so many darkened embers in the world's fireplace, she's unique in so many ways. To my sometimes faltering, unsteady steps she's given moral and spiritual strength — a hand on my shoulder that's provided more courage than a thousand friends.

Not only did she bring to me a sweet young maiden pure — she's kept her youthful charm and innocence despite the rigor and demands of passing years. She proved that girls need not be mauled or pawed like clothes at a bargain sale. No trial marriage was necessary — or experimentation or living together outside the bounds of decency.

And yet she has complete freedom. Freedom that is spawned from liberty born of love. Truth shall set us free, and she moves with unbridled enthusiasm as one who knows and loves the truth.

As fresh as the morning dew or spring's first rose is her ready smile and gracious heart. My wife, Pansy, was the first flower child I ever knew and she's adorned my life with the fragrance of a thousand rose gardens.

On our 22nd anniversary I quote the words of the poet Roy Croft to express my feelings of gratitude:

"I love you, not only for what you are, but for what I am when I am with you. I love you, not only for what you have made of yourself, but for what you are making of me.

I love you because you are helping me to make of the lumber of my life — Not a taern, but a temple; out of the works of my every day not a reproach but a song.

I love you because you have done more than any creed could have done to make me god, and more than any fate could have done to make me happy.

You have done it without a touch, without a word, without a sign. You have done it by being yourself. Perhaps that is what being a friend means, after all."

College not the best goal for everyone

By BOB AMEEN

Comes that momentous day when graduation from high school rolls around. After 12 years of elementary, junior high and high school, should your youngster go on to a college or university or should he or she follow a particular trade or skill not requiring a degree?

Perhaps, a business college or junior college education would suffice for his or her goal in life. The choice when it comes is oftentimes a difficult one to make — for both parent and child.

All too often, the parents feel it is their choice solely and do not afford any consideration as to what their offspring has to say on the subject. Regardless of the decision, parents and their sons and daughters should discuss this very important part in both of their lives as a unit.

Too often, parents feel their child "should" go on to college and obtain a degree because they never had the opportunity and they feel this will make life easier and afford greater earning power later in life.

On the other hand, we have parents, one of whom or both have college degrees, and who wish their children to follow in their footsteps, to sort of keep up the family tradition and all that goes with it.

From my own experience (I have a degree) and the experience of others who I know quite well, too many students go on to a college or university who absolutely have no business whatsoever in following that route in their lives.

Why you ask? Well, college is the big leagues, or it used to be anyway. Students, who believe they worked hard in high school and who crammed late into the night for their final exams, find that college work is a horse of another color!

Much more study at home is required, the subject matter is more complex and more initiative and creativity is demanded in certain courses. In short, not only is college a test of one's stamina, but of one's intellectual capacity.

Disregarding certain universities which cater to lower grading systems for minorities and/or for the general student population, it takes a student with a well-rounded educational background and an excellent IQ to get through four years of college and get that coveted sheepskin.

For those students who flounder and stumble and get a degree that even they feel is not really earned, life often turns out to be a series of catastrophes. Instead of facing the outside business world fully prepared for whatever comes their way, they find themselves ill equipped to cope with a new job both mentally and organizationally.

A bona fide recipient of a college or university degree is taught how to think logically and how to systematize whatever they are doing, processes which will pay off in the long run.

How many times have one of those students who should not have gone on to college — the misfits — looked back after 20 years of trying to earn a decent livelihood and looked with envy at their high school classmates who went into plumbing or who followed some other trade or who went into selling? They often find out that these "dummies" not only earn more money each year by a big margin, but are, on the whole, much happier and well adjusted to what life has to offer them.

My own son is an excellent example. An average student, he pressed no desire to attend college, but chose instead to go to work for an aluminum factory near his home as a machinist.

Today, he is a happy, satisfied individual with just about every material possession a 22-year-old man could want. He loves his job, is well liked by his co-workers and never once has been sorry that he did not go on to college.

So, parents, when the time comes for your loved ones to make that big important choice, sit down and discuss whether he or she feels that college is in their particular best interests.

Trials and Tribulations

Mrs. Driese, it was all worth it

D. G. FASSETT
ANP Managing Editor

The invitation read, "Dear Mr. Fasset, The Stevenson Junior High language arts group would like to invite you to speak on this year's "Careers Day" program.

It continued "Careers Day" is a program for the children which allows them the opportunity to hear from members of the community that are engaged in occupations which would be of special interest to the students."

Well I thought, I have arrived. The years of diligent study, the countless nights spent burning the midnight oil were about to be rewarded. (Mrs. Driese, it really was worth it.)

I picked up the phone and dialed the number listed on the invitation.

"Mrs. Schultz" I said, "would be pleased to attend your school's program and speak to the students."

Thedie was cast. There would be no retreat from this commitment. Besides, maybe this opportunity would finally allow me to engage in a one-way conversation with my oldest son, a student at Stevenson.

I marked the day on the calendar, and planned to spend a few hours preparing my talk. But no such luck.

Running a newspaper is a very interesting job provided you are endowed with a cast-iron stomach. The countless interruptions, telephone calls, visitors with hot stories and stories that make hot visitors, all tend to make the normal 8-hour day shrink to three.

The constant battle between Jim Bradley and Lothar Konietzko over the relative merits of copy versus photos. The loud discussions between Lee Smith and Tom Mooradian over Society news versus Sports. All these tend to gray the hair if there is any left, and this week was even worse than normal.

Since the Stevenson Careers Day program had been scheduled for our normal deadline day, Wednesday, I knew that if I was to prepare for the confrontation with the students, it would have to be done on the weekend. Wrong.

The weekend came and went and I was still unprepared for the contest.

By Wednesday, the day of the program, I had managed to put together about a fifteen minute discussion on the in's and out's of the newspaper business.

After a warm welcome to the school by Mrs. Schultz, including coffee and doughnuts, I was marched to the arena.

The classroom contained approximately 100 students, all appeared ready for the worst, and they sure got it.

I was not watching the clock, and inadvertently ran over my allocated 15-minutes. The students were almost asleep by the time Mrs. Schultz finally got my attention.

"THANK YOU MR. FASSETT," she said, while I was frantically looking for a hole to crawl into.

That evening as I staggered into my castle, looking forward to a little relaxation, my Stevenson son walked up to me with a grin on his face. "And what can I do for you?" I said, knowing that anytime I got a smile from him it usually meant I would shortly be getting something else.

"Oh, I just wanted to let you know what a couple of the guys in that class that you spoke to, thought of your talk," he said.

Thinking that maybe there was still a chance that I had impressed some of those students, I made the mistake of asking him, what did they think?

"They said, that of all the speakers on the careers day program, your talk was the most boring."

Well, what do they know anyway, they're only in junior high.

Efficient budget is possible this year

There is a real willingness on the part of the Legislature this year to develop an efficient budget that will provide Michigan with needed services during the 1977-78 fiscal year.

This is not an easy task because as with most budgets, we have many demands facing us and a limited amount of dollars. This is the second year the Legislature must develop a budget for the October to September fiscal year. Last year we were able to meet our self-imposed deadline of July 2 and this year we are hoping to work within a similar time frame. We approved a concurrent resolution in the Legislature calling for a June 30 deadline for budget approval and by all appearances this goal is not only realistic, but will be met.

Our self-imposed deadline for completing the budget is primarily directed at the educational needs of Michigan. When Michigan changed the fiscal year two years ago it presented a problem for public schools who begin their year in August or September.

Not only do public schools operate on a different time frame, but they also rely heavily on state aid for their support. Without a definite budget figure, the public schools throughout Michigan would be unable to plan for the coming school year.

It has always been our intent in the Legislature to work with such organizations to ensure that the needs of the people are met. In this case, inaction by the Legislature would force school districts to go to the property owners for increased financial support to assure continuity in educational programs.

In the Senate we have approved all of the budgets which we originated, except for our Data Processing Budget. In approving those budgets, we reported them out of the Senate Appropriations Committee by our April 7 deadline and have established a June 17 deadline for reporting House bills to the Senate for approval.

Among those Senate budgets approved are the Department of Education budget; the Community and Junior Colleges budget; the budget for the Department of Corrections; the Mental Health budget; the Higher Education budget and the Public Health budget.

The Data Processing budget was delayed because there was debate between the Senate and the Governor on whether data processing, which totals more than $50 million, should be considered within the department budgets or be developed into a separate budget. I am happy to say, the Governor has agreed with the Senate and that budget will likely be approved within the week.

Our colleagues in the House have also approved the majority of bills originating in that chamber with the exception of budgets for Capital Outlay and Grants and Transfers.

Also still to be decided is the budget for Transportation. However, because of uncertainty in the Governor's proposed transportation package, a transportation budget has not been recommended to date.

Because we are anxious to complete work on the budget, a number of joint committees have met to discuss many of the appropriation bills which I believe will reduce the last minute debate over many of our appropriations.

The Legislature faces a great deal of significant legislation which must take a back

State Senator William Faust

seat until the budget has been signed into law. I would hope that our goal is realized, allowing us to devote our efforts to the other issues that directly affect Michigan residents.

Health Beat

Alcohol addiction is not limited to men

As indicated in previous columns, the addiction to alcohol is not the sole province of the male of the species.

Indeed, according to Gerald P. Maloney, Chief of the Alcoholism Therapy Service at the Annapolis Hospital, "We are witnessing a definite change in attitude and community values. A change which says that females too can find themselves caught up in the alcohol addiction syndrome."

Maloney said that currently he estimated that 35 percent of the patients in the therapy program at Annapolis are female — and he hazardous a guess that in short order, the score card will show a 50-50 distribution.

"Traditionally," said Maloney, "women did not drink as much as men, and thus alcoholism among females has not developed as fast as it has among men."

He cautioned, however, that one must be careful of gross percentages without analyzing other contributing factors.

For instance, prior to the advent of contemporary thinking, women alcoholics historically would see their husband off to work, pack the children on the school bus, and sit down behind closed blinds and drink themselves into oblivion. It was these alcoholic women who did not surface and become statistics on the medical charts.

And interestingly enough, husbands are quick to come to their spouses' defense and deny that any problem really exists.

Hence, there was a second group of alcoholics who did not figure in the over-all statistics. Yet, this very protective attitude could well, and has, "protected" a woman right into the DT's.

"We have operated for a long time under a double standard," said Norman Gersabeck, MC, a practicing psychiatrist who works with Maloney in the alcoholism program.

Dr. Gersabeck continued by saying, "Take for example the case of the amorous drunk. If that drunk is a male, he is generally thought of to be a Don Juan and a swinging lady killer. However, if that drunk happens to be female and amorous, she is immediately labeled a loose woman at best. And most often, the description is much more graphic and degrading."

And another interesting social phenomenon was discussed. It appears (and, please no offense is intended toward any police department) that police officers are more reluctant to cite a woman for driving under the influence of alcohol than they are to cite a male.

This reluctance may well have its roots in the traditional role definitions applied by society. Although, in truth, such role definitions are quickly modified to reflect the honest nature of "the way things are."

According to Dr. Gersabeck, one of the reasons a man will protect his wife and deny her problem is the fact that he does not want to be embarrassed and have to admit that his wife is an alcoholic. Indeed, it is clear to practitioners in alcoholism therapy that men are much more protective of their alcoholic spouses than women are of their husbands under similar circumstances.

A male alcoholic — as compared to a housewife alcoholic — possibly has an advantage in working toward recovery in that a third party (his employer) might step in and issue an ultimatum: stop coming into work drunk or hungover, or find yourself another job. While obviously such ultimatums are not in and of themselves enough to make an alcoholic quit drinking, they can certainly serve as initial stimuli in one's thinking process.

The converse exists at home for the wife. There is no third-party pressure. True, a husband may threaten divorce. However, history clearly tells us that such threats from a spouse are, for the most part, totally ineffective.

The alcoholic wife, and especially if there are young children involved, perceives her role as a mother to be of paramount importance — she knows her children are vulnerable, and her drinking episodes during which she can not be a proper mother, tend to fill her with guilt. This guilt, then, can be the stimulus behind another episode (failure to recognize reality). And so it goes until professional help is brought into the scenario.

Dr. Gersabeck observed that it has been his experience that once an alcoholic woman has finally accepted the reality of her addiction, she has an advantage in the recovery process.

He said that "it appears that women in general have the ability to be more in touch with their own feelings than men."

And we are going to discuss that possibility next week when we interview Elaine Gat Balinski, a woman, and an alcoholism therapist at Annapolis.

As we left the meeting in Maloney's office, he said there was one thing he wished I'd emphasize: if you are going to drink, learn to drink socially. When I then asked him to define social drinking, he replied, "No more than two drinks in any 24-hour period. Three if your daughter gets married, and four if you are promoted to a Vice-President at the General Motors Corporation."

The definition elicited a chuckle from both Dr. Gersabeck and myself — but, you know, it makes good sense!

It happens every two years

It happens every two years — the biennial bloom of Romulus' mayoral candidates, whose promises, pledges and planks are so obscure and rehearsed that, after a while, they all begin to sound alike.

This year, however, a funny thing is happening on the way to the mayoral election, because we finally have a candidate for Mayor who is not so concerned with slick appearance and HOW he says things as he is with WHAT he is saying. His name is Bill Oakley and initially he promises to be the kind of candidate who will not cloud issues by couching his opinions in political jargon.

As Oakley said at his kickoff rally, "I am simply going to say what I mean, and mean what I say." What he said was that he is not a politician and that he is not about to use the political crony system of promising jobs as a way to get into office.

Instead, Mr. Oakley is a businessman, and I hasten to add, a very successful one who is well prepared to bring those business skills to this city's top administrative post.

He is unique in his understanding and knowledge of what literally makes cents — and dollars for our community and its residents.

In concise and lucid terms, Oakley said at his rally that he sees the job of Mayor as being a combination Administrator — Mediator. My personal opinion is that if he is given the opportunity to apply the same managerial skills to the office of Mayor as he does to business, he will no doubt vastly improve the operation of Romulus' city government.

As a mediator, Oakley said he hopes to reconcile those gaps that periodically occur between city council and city department heads. Who better, I wonder, to welcome opinions at variance with each other than someone like Oakley, who has served on the council and school board and knows first hand how to arbitrate the divergent views of a few for the advantage of many?

I hope that over the next six months many other Romulus residents will have the chance to meet and talk with Bill Oakley as I did at his rally, because I think they too will find him refreshing.

A comfortable combination of moxie and compassion, Oakley is not a politician. What is so striking is that Oakley is an honest man whose only concern is to mean what he expresses — not how he impresses.

Millage failures a great loss

To the Editor:

It is a shame that we are holding our 4th School Millage election, and an even greater shame of what the effects will be on this community should it fail again.

In past years, we began chiseling education to the point where little is left to be desired. Already the effects show in our young, and experts have predicted that by the turn of this century it is highly possible we will have an "illiterate society." Our nation could easily be destroyed under such circumstances. But so few of us worry about the future until it gets here anyway, so this may seem unimportant to most at the present time.

A millage failure will stop our taxes from rising, yes...but it will also do a lot of other things too. It will drive people out of our community, and steer prospective families away from moving into our city. Our homes and property values will surely depreciate, and many of our good teachers and administrators may activate their files with hopes of relocating elsewhere. The greatest loss and consequence will be for the children of Romulus. But, for centuries the saying has been and probably will remain... "Suffer the little children."

Eventually, we shall all chisel and widdle away all the foundations of a good education at the expense of our children, our homes, and our land. And even though we will probably have the lowest tax base around...we'll be lucky if we have enough people in the community to pay the taxes.

About the only exciting thing we will probably have left in Romulus, in my estimate, is the airport. And when I watch the departures leave this city from Metro, I am sure at the same time, I will be wishing I could fly the "Friendly skies" to a more promising community that would at least guarantee my children their right to a good, quality education!

As representatives of the Michigan Week Committee, we want to publicly express our deepest appreciation for the outstanding contributions made by the Associated Newspaper. We especially appreciate the special souvenir edition of "Michigan Week in Romulus" and commend you on an outstanding publication.

We would also like to thank Publisher David J. Willett for addressing the Mayor's Exchange Dinner May 16, 1977. His comments regarding the relationship between the local paper and the City Government were particularly relevant.

We look forward to a continuing, close relationship with your fine paper in the future.

The roof is optional

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

"Hey mom," my son yelled over the telephone. "I want you and Dad to ride out and see the new house I just bought."

"Oh you found one," I said with a tinkle in my voice. "Is it close to your work?"

"Well, it's pretty close," he said. "I only have to drive twenty miles to the freeway and then twenty-five miles on the freeway. It won't take too long."

"With the cost of gas going up," I ventured, but he cut me off with a laugh and said, "Mom, will you and Dad drive out and see my new house?"

"Oh sure," I answered and went upstairs where my kid's dad was just getting ready to get comfortable for the evening.

"Don't get too comfortable," I told him. "Our boy wants us to drive out and see the new house he just signed for."

"My gosh," he said getting back into his pants. "That's thirty miles away."

But we drove out and followed the kid's instructions carefully, although it took us three new subdivisions before we found him standing on the steps of a Colonial.

"Here it is," he grinned happily and held the door open for us. The entrance way was wide and the tile gleamed. Off to our right was a living room with thick lush carpeting.

"Oh it's beautiful," I said. "I love the tile."

"That doesn't come with the house," my boy said. "We have to put in tile ourselves."

"How much is this house costing you, Son?" my husband asked.

"Only $43,000," he beamed.

I didn't notice my husband falling to the floor in a dead faint.

"I love this carpeting," I said.

"That doesn't come with the house, either," my kid said. "But look at the family room!"

"Oh wow!" I breathed. "What a room. How large is it?"

"This room is 18 x 23," he said. "But I have to cut off six feet of it to get in the $43,000 price."

"Oh well," I said, patting him on his hand. "You still have that gorgeous fireplace wall."

"Well, we don't get the fireplace, either," he said.

"Well, I guess you can get along without a fireplace," I reassured him. "Look at this beautiful kitchen! A built-in stove and oven, yet!"

"We don't get that, either, Mom," he said. "That's when his father came to."

"What the hell do you get?" he shouted, "for $43,000?"

"Well, I guess you'd say we get the basic house. Oh, one thing," he said brightening up. "We get ceramic tile around the bathtub."

But just as he said that, the salesman came in and took down a sign which said "Ceramic Tile in bathroom."

"That's just gone off our list," he said. "But I've signed for the house and that was on my list," my kid yelled.

"The loan hasn't gone through, yet," the salesman said. "Tough."

That's when my kid's father started looking sick. And so did my kid.

"Oh well," I said brightly. "Just so they leave the tub and the 'john'."

Funny you should mention that," the salesman said, slapping another sign on the bathroom wall. The sign read "Bathtub optional."

"You're getting a real buy in this house," he said. "On July 1 the base price is going up $3,000."

For open house we are giving my kid an old fashioned wash tub. It was all right for his ancestors. For only $43,000 should he expect more?

With ANP editors and writers

What is in a name

Ah, the similarity in names! What confusion they can cause. A "Mr. Cullin" was mentioned in a recent column written by D. G. Fassett, managing editor of Associated Newspapers, as his automobile insurance agent.

When Cullin was questioned about a bill sent to Fassett, during their fictional conversation, quoting higher premium rates for two old worn-out cars, the agent had made a suggestion as to how the editor could save money which bordered on the ridiculous.

The column, written in a jesting fashion, nevertheless struck the wrong nerve in one reader, who came barging into ANP's office in Wayne looking for Fassett.

After brusquely informing the editor that he was "Mr. Cullin," the irate gentleman threatened to consult a lawyer if an immediate front page retraction was not made.

Subsequent discussion between the accuser and the accused disclosed the upset citizen was also an insurance agent! In fact, Fassett had never seen the man before in his life! At last report, nothing new has been reported in this tale of two persons with the same last name. Of course, it could have gotten a lot more confusing if Pat Cullin, supervisor of Van Buren Township, and Pat Cullen, city manager of Wayne, had decided to get into the act!

Winners are few

Mahalak: Bills meet needs local, state

There are several thousand bills introduced in each session of the State Legislature. Many die in committee, others fail to pass both houses of the legislature. And the few that do win final approval are killed by the Governor's veto, while a few hundred are signed into law.

Each legislator is free to introduce as many bills as he or she wishes and these bills generally are designed to meet local or state-wide needs. That's the word by State Rep. Edward Mahalak of the 38th District.

Mahalak in discussing legislative bills said those he introduces in the State House, "attempt to respond to those needs".

"As examples, I have sponsored three bills to improve our solid waste management program," he said. "As our population grows, the amount of garbage and refuse, we produce grows with it.

"These solid wastes would overwhelm us and cause serious environmental and health problems if we did not have an effective management program.

"It is the purpose of my package of bills to strengthen the program we have now and make it better to able to cope with present and future needs."

According to Mahalak, the Department of Natural Resources is geared to handle that type of program, however, the state representative feels there should be more local input and control in it. The local units are the ones that best understand local problems and their increased participation would make solid waste management more effective, he added.

Mahalak's bills would require that garbage and refuse trucks, licensed under local ordinance, carry a seal to show that they also comply with the provisions of state law.

The bills also would tighten bonding requirements for operators of sanitary landfills and other disposal facilities. Sanitary landfills would have to be bonded at $2,000 per acre and not less than $7,500. The present requirement is $500 per acre and not less than $2,500.

Minimum bonds for other types of disposal areas would also be increased from at least $2,500 to a minimum of $7,500. The bond would remain in effect until two years after the disposal site is closed. The higher bonding requirements are more realistic and better protect the public interest, Mahalak said.

would be elected to a 6-year term in the 1978 elections and would take office Jan. 1, 1979.

A second bill relates to the office of fence viewer, whose duties include making fence inspections and determining the condition of and financial responsibility for fences in a township, Mahalak said. Presently, two trustees in each township are designated fence viewers. His bill would make District Court judges responsible for fence viewing, enabling the judge to designate either a magistrate or court clerk as a fence viewer.

"Although fence viewing has become a little known and little used public responsibility, there is a need for it in certain areas, especially rural areas," Mahalak concluded. "However, I feel that these duties would be more effectively and easily handled if channeled through the District Courts.

Don't wait for school days to get children vaccinated

"Don't wait until your children are old enough to go to school to get them vaccinated against early childhood diseases," urged the Citizens Health Advisory Council of Sumpter, Van Buren and Belleville.

According to Michigan State University Extension Health Specialist Donna Manczak: "The sooner children are vaccinated, the better. Some of the vaccines, such as polio, should be started when the infant is only about 2 months old. Others, such as measles, should not be given during the first year of life, but as soon after the child's first birthday as possible."

Even though the City of Detroit passed legislation stating all Detroit children must be vaccinated before starting school, the law does not apply to surrounding areas. However, specialists urge all children be vaccinated before entering school because if an epidemic strikes, it is likely to hit hardest and spread most quickly among young children. Many children are very susceptible to the diseases and become more severely ill.

If the child missed out on vaccination in his earlier years and already is in school, it still is not too late for vaccination. Schools are prime places for the spread of disease and unprotected school-age children should be vaccinated.

Everyone should be vaccinated against polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough).

"You should be immunized against diphtheria and tetanus at 10 year intervals," recommends Mrs. Manczak, health specialist for Michigan State University. "Diphtheria is becoming more of a problem among adults than children."

A woman of child-bearing age who has not already been protected, against German measles, should be vaccinated. However, a pregnant woman should not receive the vaccination. Young adults who still are susceptible to mumps should consider immunization. The disease is more serious and painful for adults than for children. Also, mumps can cause miscarriage if contracted during the first three months of pregnancy.

Now that such diseases can be prevented, many people are no longer afraid of them and have become lax about having their children, or themselves vaccinated.

As a result, many people remain needlessly vulnerable to serious disease," said Mrs. Manczak. "Death and serious disability still occur from these preventable diseases."

If you're not sure whether you or your children have received all their vaccinations, check with your doctor or health department and have them fully protected.

No disposal facility could be constructed without a permit from the Department of Natural Resources. This would apply to both private and governmental facilities. The application for a permit would have to be accompanied by an engineering plan and a fee to cover administrative costs, under the proposals. Before the application is filed, the local health department would have to conduct a preliminary review of the proposed site, and after the application is made, there would be a local review of the proposed operating plans.

Either the state or the local unit of government would be authorized to issue a cease and desist order if a site is being constructed without a permit, or construction is not complying with the approved plans, Mahalak said, adding that in the latter instance, the construction permit could be revoked.

The legislation also would require that the owner or the operator of a solid waste hauling concern be licensed rather than the trucks requirement would not apply to refuse haulers with annual gross revenues of less than $20,000. Private haulers would pay a license fee for each truck, however, governmental units would be exempt from the fee requirement.

Trucks would be inspected to determine whether the hauler has in operation only units which meet requirements, are hygienic and do not cause litter, and to determine that all refuse is delivered to licensed disposal sites.

"Several of the bills I have introduced relate to the courts," Mahalak continued. "One of them is designed to meet a purely local need. It would add a third judge to the Monroe County Circuit Court."

"It has become increasingly apparent that the court needs a third judge, if it is to function effectively," he added. "The caseload has been increasing to a point where it cannot be handled efficiently by just two judges."

Under the bill, the third judge

County urges move on emission control

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has urged Congressional passage of Michigan-backed legislation aimed at regulating automobile emissions and fuel consumption while avoiding massive disruption of the auto industry.

The county legislative body acted on an emergency basis at its May 19 meeting, endorsing identical measures which were sponsored in the House and Senate by legislators from Michigan.

The measures are alternatives to more stringent bills, which, according to both the automakers and organized labor, would severely disrupt the auto industry, causing sales to plunge and resulting in massive layoffs.

Endorsed by the Board of Commissioners were the Dingell-Broadhead Bill—HB 444—and its Senate counterpart—S 919.

In endorsing the legislation, the county board unanimously approved a resolution, introduced by Commissioners Edgar L. Harris of Taylor, Tom Presnell of Westland, Royce Smith of Belleville and Alex Pilch of Dearborn.

“Several measures pending before the Congress would have a severe negative impact on sales and result in the layoffs of thousands in Michigan and elsewhere,” Harris said. “The legislation introduced from Michigan offers the best method of regulating auto emissions and fuel consumption while minimizing the impact on the economies of Michigan and the nation.”

Presnell said the Michigan legislation also protects the consumer by providing “realistic” manufacturing schedules and controls “which will keep the purchase price and maintenance costs in check so that autos remain affordable by the American public.”

Smith pointed out that the measures have the support of domestic and foreign automakers, the UAW, the AFL-CIO, auto dealers, part suppliers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Fence keeps furry diners from garden

This week's tips for the Garden Doctor include:

Q: How can I keep rabbits from eating my vegetables?

A: Fencing them out is the surest method. Mesh wire three feet high will usually suffice. Bury the bottom 4 inches so the rabbits won't burrow under it. Sprinkling dried blood fertilizer around the plants and keeping it moist may give some control.

Q: Our tomato plants are being cut off at the ground level during the night. What is doing this?

A: This sounds like the work of cutworms. These thick caterpillars crawl over the soil surface at night and chew the stems of tender plants. Control them by putting paper cylinders around the stems of your plants, or use paper cups with the bottoms removed. Sevin (carbaryl) can be sprayed around the stems of your plants as an alternate control.

Q: What vines can be grown on a chain link fence to create a privacy screen?

A: Dutchman's pipe (Aristolochia) is a rapid grower with large leaves that does well in sun and shade. Porcelain berry (Ampelopsis) is a moderate grower that will tolerate shade, but grows best in full sun. Virginia Creeper (Ampelopsis) is an aggressive vine that grows in sun and shade. All of these are perennials. An annual that could be used for this purpose is morning glory.

Q: When is the best time of day to water the lawn?

A: Water it early in the day so the blades dry quickly. Watering it when the sun is shining causes no harm to the grass and, in fact, can lessen the heat stress of mid-day.

Q: Is it too late to transplant a tree from our front yard to the backyard?

A: Yes, transplanting from one yard site to another should be done during the dormant season. However, there still is time to plant container-grown trees and shrubs or the balled and burlapped shrubs available from nurseries.

Unemployment shows decline during April

Unemployment in both the State of Michigan and the Detroit metropolitan area declined for the fourth consecutive month, according to April estimates released by the director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, S. Martin Taylor.

In Michigan, the jobless total fell by 23,800 from the March level to 301,500 in April. Michigan's April employment rate, 7.5 percent of the labor force, was down from 8.1 percent in March and 9.5 percent a year ago.

In the Detroit metropolitan area — Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston, Lapeer and St. Clair counties — the unemployment rate declined from 7.7 percent in March to 7.5 percent in April. The number of unemployed decreased by 3,400 to 142,200. In April 1976, there were 170,400 — 9.1 percent — unemployed in the Detroit metropolitan area.

Taylor explained that the unemployment reduction was smaller in the Detroit metropolitan area because of new entrants and re-entrants into the summer labor force. He expects the work force to expand throughout the state over the next couple of months as more people begin their search for summer jobs.

Most of the employment increases in Michigan and the Detroit area occurred in the construction and retail trade sectors. Employment in manufacturing remained virtually unchanged.

Creative word class to open

High school graduates of 1977 and those who will be seniors this fall are invited to participate in WORD-CRAFT, a special creative writing program, this summer.

Sponsored by the English Department of Wayne State University and offered through the College of Lifelong Learning, the program runs from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday from June 27 to July 25 at the WSU Southfield Center, 25160 W. Eleven Mile Road, Southfield.

Under the direction of workshop leaders Stephen Tudor and Dewitt Clinton, the students will receive training in specific techniques of writing poetry, fiction and drama. Prose poems, slice-of-life stories and scenarios for television are a few of the areas to be explored.

To be eligible, students must be recommended by their teacher and submit a few short poems, one short story or play.

High school graduates may register for four hours of credit as English 0210. Seniors will register on a non-credit basis.

For brochure, giving complete workshop and registration information, call 358-2014.

Proposed by President

Killeen backs election day registrations

Appearing before a Senate committee recently Wayne County Clerk James R. Killeen endorsed President Carter's proposal for election day voter registration, but called for more sweeping changes to increase voter turnouts.

Killeen urged that the nation shift to weekend elections as are held in nations where voter turnouts as high as 90 percent are common. The 1976 Presidential election drew 65 percent of the qualified voters in Michigan.

Killeen also urged that primary elections be held in May instead of August and general elections be held in September rather than November.

Many voters are away on vacation in August and many voters are discouraged by early darkness and inclement weather in November, he contended.

Killeen testified in Washington before the Senate Committee on Registration and Administration, which is holding hearings on Carter's election proposals, contained in Senate Bill 1072.

"Each of us should be concerned by the continuing decline of citizen participation in the elective process," Killeen said.

History "clearly shows that where substantial numbers of citizens choose not to participate, they unwittingly surrender their freedom to relatively small, well organized and disciplined groups which are capable of turning out their votes", he added.

Killeen said many voters do not get interested enough to register until just before election day when it is too late in most states. He noted that Michigan law closes voter registration 30 days before an election.

"This type of administrative barrier must be removed," Killeen continued. "We have paid a tremendous price in lives and in treasure to obtain and keep the right of free access to the ballot box, and I believe it is obscene to fritter away that right through unnecessary legislation or administrative barrier."

"Election Day registration is one procedure that will substantially affect the number of people who will vote."

Killeen cited a 1972 Census Bureau survey as evidence that enabling voters to both register and vote on election day would increase turnouts. He said the survey found that 87 percent of those who registered did in fact vote.

Killeen did not agree with critics who have charged that election day registration will increase voter fraud. He said there should be no problem, if election officials properly train and deploy sufficient numbers of registrars.

"In addition, I believe there should be a slightly higher burden of proof on registrants than is provided in this bill," Killeen added, saying that registrants should be required to show a driver's license, rent receipt or other identification and possibly "identify by name every adult living in his or her residence".

Killeen also called for "rigorous" enforcement of the Senate bill's voter fraud penalties to further discourage fraud.

In calling for weekend elections, he said the United States "has constantly had a poorer voting record than any other major democracy in the world."

"Where the law has permitted me in Michigan, I have set weekend elections and have encouraged others to do the same, and we have found that it has substantially increased voter participation," Killeen said.

As an alternative to weekend elections, he suggested that election days (now normally Tuesdays) be paid holidays for those who actually vote.

He also recommended that primary elections be held during the first week in May and general elections during the first week in September.

Killeen reported that the 4 to 8 p.m. period is no longer the time of heaviest voting in Michigan as it was in past general elections.

"We believe that this is occurring because darkness in November sets in about 5 p.m. and many people are afraid to be on the streets after dark," he explained.

He acknowledged that his proposals might increase election costs, but said: "I do not believe that it is comparable to the price we have already paid for the right to vote."

Leitch joins in 'Shield'

Navy Fire Control Tech. 2.c. David W. Leitch, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Leitch of Westpoint, Romulus, is participating in Exercise "Solid Shield '77".

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the amphibious command ship, USS Mount Whitney, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The 2-week joint exercise is being conducted in the Atlantic coastal waters off of North Carolina and Georgia and at nearby military installations. "Solid Shield" is designed to provide training in joint operations for a multi-service force. This year's exercise included air, naval and ground operations and a large scale amphibious assault.

Leitch joined the Navy in January 1974.

Also in the armed forces:

Navy Chief Boatswain's Mate Lawrence G. Kangas, whose wife, Diana, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll W. Bush of Van Horn Road, New Boston, recently participated in the major NATO exercise "Dawn Patrol '77" in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the replenishment oiler USS Kalamazoo, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

The 2-week exercise was designed to test the ability of NATO forces to provide rapid reinforcement of southern Europe. The exercise provided training in tactical air operations, electronic warfare tactics, antisurface operations and reconnaissance and included a major amphibious landing on Sardinia.

Kangas joined the Navy in April 1964.

Ralph E. Mapes, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gumbleton of Castle Drive, Romulus, recently was promoted to Army private first class while serving with the 4th Transportation Brigade in Russelsheim, Germany.

Pfc. Mapes is a wheeled vehicle mechanic with the 78th Transportation Company, 106th Transportation Battalion of the brigade's 37th Transportation Group.

The private entered the Army in January 1976.

Club set for dance

The Romulus Athletic Club is holding a 50s Dance June 11 at the Romulus VFW Hall, located at 39270 Hugn River Drive.

The dance will run from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. and costs $4 per person.

The dance will help raise funds to purchase new equipment for the coming year.

VA grant available for wheelchair home

A grant of up to $25,000 is available for seriously disabled veterans interested in "wheelchair homes." That's the word from Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland, who himself lost both legs and an arm during the Vietnam conflict.

He reminded eligible veterans the grant can be applied to a new home, used to remodel an existing dwelling or to pay off the balance owing on a home the veteran has modified at his own expense.

detector and other features.

Cleland said VA field specialists will help eligible veterans in choosing a suitable lot for the housing unit, in obtaining the services of an architect, securing construction bids and arranging financing.

The VA Administrator also reminded veterans that some states provide special tax relief for owners of "wheelchair homes" and up to $40,000 mortgage life insurance is available to

In state's Class A

North JHS band joins elite group

Romulus North Junior High School's Symphonic Band competed recently at the State Band Festival at Powell Junior High School in Romeo, receiving first division ratings from all four adjudicators.

The band now becomes a member of a very small elite group of Class "A" Junior High School Bands in the state of Michigan.

In each of the last three years only four Class "A" junior high school bands have received all first division ratings at the State Band Festival. There are more than 300 Class "A" junior high schools in Michigan.

The State Band Festival is sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Each Judge rates the bands according to state-wide accepted standards and in comparison with other competing groups. Extremely high musical standards are employed for the state festivals. Each judge rates each band according to tone, intonation, rhythm, technique and interpretation.

The four judges in each of five categories gives a possibility of 20 letter grades — an A would equal a first division rating. The 78-member North Junior High Symphonic Band received 19 As and 1 B.

Band members have raised funds throughout the year to finance their activities. With the difficult financial situation of the schools, band members had to purchase their own band music, reeds, valve oil and pay for transportation home from after-school rehearsals, as well as for all festival-related expenses, entry fees, membership fees, costs of opening the school on Saturdays and transportation to the State Festival site.

The band's last scheduled performance this year will be the Spring Concert at 7:30 p.m., June 2 in the North Junior High gym.

Romulus North Jr. High Symphonic Band members include:

—Flutists Cyndi Garrett, Linda Saenz, Lisa McKay, Sue Marsiglia, Julie Pogats, Lisa Huff, Joyce Captain, Marianne Johnson, Stacy Sorrel, Linda Schonscheck, Robin Albright, Debbie McLean and Toni Simons.

—Clarinetists Beverly Smith, Kim Slivey, Mary Ann Carpenter, Jill Austin, Lisa Foster, Lisa Raspberry, Kim McCombs, Laurie Holt, Lori Frink, Karyn Silvey, Kim Johnson, Tracey Rusan, Chris Bunyack and Andrea Butler.

Presiding officer, keynote speakers set for Focus

The State Coordinating Committee for Michigan's International Women's Year meeting, Focus: Michigan Women, has announced the names of the presiding officer and keynote speakers for the June 10-11 meeting in the Lansing Civic Center.

Eurora Pettigrew of Okemos will preside over the two plenary sessions and Elizabeth Athanasakos of Wilton Manors, Fla., Virginia Allan of Falls Church, Va., and Nellie Varner of Ann Arbor will address various sessions of the 2-day meeting.

Ms. Pettigrew is the acting chairperson and professor of the department of urban and metropolitan studies of the College of Urban Development at Michigan State University. Dr. Pettigrew served on the Michigan Women's Commission from 1971-75, was voted outstanding woman educator by the Michigan Women's Lawyers Association and Michigan Trial Lawyers Association in October 1975, and is the first vice-president of Black Professional Women in Higher Education.

Ms. Athanasakos, a member of the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year, served as a municipal judge in Wilton Manors from 1964 to 1974 and currently has her own law practice in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., dealing primarily in divorce cases.

Ms. Athanasakos, the daughter of immigrants from Sparta, Greece, is an opponent of sex bias in the country's educational system and was appointed in 1972 to a Federal Advisory Committee on Women created by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. She will address the June 10 opening plenary session.

Ms. Allan, formerly the deputy assistant secretary for public affairs of the Department of State, was the presiding officer of Ad Hoc Interagency Working group to plan for International Women's Year, 1973-75. Ms. Allan received her bachelor and master degrees from the University of Michigan and served as regent of Eastern Michigan University from 1964 to 1974. She is a board member of the Center for the Study of the Presidency, director and vice-president of the Member Association of Foreign Service and chairperson of "The Future of the Foundation Committee," of the Business and Professional Women's Foundation. She serves as region emeritus of Eastern Michigan University. Ms. Allan will address the June 10 evening session.

Dr. Varner, associate dean of the Rackham School of Graduate Studies of the University of Michigan, will address the closing plenary session on June 11. Dr. Varner is a member of the National Science Foundation Advisory Committee for Minority Programs in Science Education and of the American Council on Education, Commission on Women in Higher Education from 1972-75. Dr. Varner was the director of the affirmative action programs at University of Michigan. She is listed in "Who's Who in Black America".

Focus: Michigan Women is open to all women of Michigan. Registration information may be obtained by writing 217 Townsend, Lansing 48933 or by calling (517) 482-1695.

WCRC backs unique plan to aid minority contractors

The Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) has formally endorsed unique plan that will improve the opportunities of minority contractors to do business with the WCRC.

Hailing the board's acceptance of the plan to reduce or eliminate cash bid deposit requirements, Joseph Gough, president of the Michigan Contractors Association (MCA) termed the WCRC action "a tremendous boost to our members and all contractors". The plan has been long sought by the MCA.

Michael Berry, WCRC chairman, and his fellow board members — Joseph M. Herron and Freddie G. Burton — expressed pleasure that the board and the contractors' association were able to work out the plan.

"The board was interested in opening the doors wider without risk to the board, which must always protect the public's interest, and encourage especially the small or minority-owned contractor to bid on board contracts," Berry said.

The new plan amends the board's provisions regarding cash guaranty deposit on bids, making it more financially feasible for contractors to submit bids to the board — without initially tying up working capital funds.

Berry noted that while provisions of the board's requirements on bid deposits has been amended, the public is well protected since performance and payment bonds are required once the commission awards the contract to the successful bidder.

"The board will be following this plan very closely. We are anxious to encourage any and all bidders since competition is the essence of obtaining the work for the best possible price," Berry said. "This is a trial program that should attract capable contractors who, in the past, may have financially been unable to tie up limited working capital just bidding on a proposed project," Berry said.

Previously, the board required a certified or cashier's check in the amount of 5 percent of the board engineer's estimated value of the proposed contract — on a large contract, a contractor frequently had to tie up large sums of money for several weeks or longer.

Under the plan approved by the board, a contractor's proposal or bid on a job must be accompanied with a guaranty deposit, according to the following schedule:

1) On estimated contract value up to $50,000 — no guaranty deposit required.

2) On an estimated contract valued between $50,000 to $250,000, the only guaranty required is a bid bond underwritten by a surety licensed in Michigan in an amount equal to 100 percent of the value of the contract proposal.

3) On estimated contract values in excess of $250,000, a bid will be required as above, plus a certified or cashier's check at a reduced percentage from previous requirements of 5 percent, with a minimum excess cash guarantee of $1,000.

Proposal would curb liability suits

A 10-point proposal to curb the pressing problem of product liability lawsuits has been introduced by the Republican vice-chairman of the House Insurance Committee.

Rep. Dan Angel of Battle Creek said product liability losses, more than double those of medical malpractice losses, are "a growing wildfire that could consume Michigan's industry and the jobs that go with it."

"Product liability is the nation's latest, and perhaps largest, insurance problem. It has become a lottery system, in which some few individuals obtain exorbitant sums and leave the majority of us to pick up the price tag," the republican said. "We need to restore some sanity to this whole lawsuit syndrome."

Angel's bill is designed to do just that. The legislation would limit damages to a reasonable amount to compensate a plaintiff for his injury of loss and would place a limitation on any awards above the actual damages. It also would establish a specific statute of limitations on product liability.

'This year, at least 25 states are considering at least limited legislation on this problem.'

The Angel bill would offer protection to manufacturers by allowing them to use as a defense in any suit conformity to government standards and the fact of alteration or modification of a product which would change its original purpose, use or function after it has been manufactured.

The bill would partially curtail a growing trend by limiting the duty of the manufacturer to warn buyers of obvious negligent or improper use of a product, or of something the user is required to know under federal or state law or regulation.

The bill also would require a 2-part trial and would allow admission as evidence collateral payments to the plaintiff for his injuries. It would reduce litigation by allowing the manufacturer to use as a defense the fact that the product conformed to the "state of the art" when it was manufactured, as well as by requiring an affidavit from the plaintiff's attorney that the case was not solicited. There also would be limitations on settlements by loan or guarantee agreements.

In 1975, the legislature enacted 16 bills, 12 of which he co-sponsored, to deal with the medical malpractice crisis. "What people don't realize is that product liability losses are two times worse than malpractice losses." He cited a $750 million medical malpractice liability cost in 1975 compared to a $1.5 billion cost in the area of product liability.

"This is a very real threat to the survival of American and Michigan industry, particularly small business," Angel said.

According to a U.S. Department of Commerce report the average jury award rose 700 percent, from $11,600 to $80,000, in the period from 1965 to 1973. This compared with a price index increase of 60 percent during the same years. In 1960 claims numbered 50,000; by 1976 they reached one million, and projections for 1980 are 2 million.

"In Michigan, as well as the nation," Angel said, "we're having twin problems of cost and availability, which are particularly acute in the case of the small businessman."

The Michigan Manufacturers Association recently reported that during the past two years a significant number of its members have experienced product liability insurance increases which have doubled, tripled and quadrupled their costs. There also are cases in which premiums have risen five times or more over the 2-year period, according to the study.

"This year, at least 25 states are considering at least limited legislation on this problem. Six bills introduced last year in the Michigan House and Senate were not even seriously considered," Angel said.

"Insurance Commissioner Tom Jojes believes that the problem should be solved on the national level. I disagree with him completely and feel that regulation of America's $100 billion insurance industry is totally within state jurisdiction."

"One state legislature, particularly one in a major industrial state such as Michigan, should lead the way to practical solutions. I believe my bill is a model piece of legislation which could be enacted in numerous other states."

Adult adoptees form units to garner parents' identity

Chapters are beginning to spring up throughout the state as adult adoptees press for a change in the current state law which permanently seals adoption records.

Adoption Identity Movement of Michigan Inc. is a non-profit organization, taffed by volunteers, founded following the work of Jean Paton, founder of Orphan Voyage in Cedaredge, Colo., and pioneer for the rights of the adult adoptee.

Members of state chapters include adult adoptees, genetic parents and relatives, adoptive parents and interested workers in the field of adoption.

Such a group has been meeting in Hazel Park since early 1974 developing an organization along the lines of:

- Educating the public as to the rights of the adult adoptee and removing the secrecy and fear that surrounds adoption;
- Establishing a Reunion File and Search Workshop;
- Having the Michigan law changed as to the "sealed" record; and
- Providing one-to-one counseling for persons sharing similar problems particular to members of the adoption triangle.

Adoption Identity hopes to bring about the above stated objectives by working with adoption agencies, courts, legislators, adoptive parent groups and others involved in the adoption process.

At present the organization does not conduct individual searches for natural parents or for children placed for adoption, however, its Search Workshop reviews cases and gives suggestions as applicable to further one's search.

Adoption Identity Movement of Michigan Inc. is part of the changing adoption scene and one of several groups developing throughout the United States, Canada and overseas along the same lines, a spokesman for the organization said.

"We hope that you will be interested in our work and lend us your support," the spokesman added.

Membership in Adoption Identity costs $10 per year for members wishing to be included in the Reunion File, newsletter and Search Workshop. Those persons wanting only a copy of the newsletter, which is issued as input warrants the fee is $3 per year.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Adoption Identity Movement of Michigan at P.O. Box 206, Hazel Park, 48030, or by contacting Tina Otway, coordinator, at 399-1290 after 6:30 p.m.; Martha Gault, community liaison, at 858-7186 during the day; or Phyllis McFarland in Ann Arbor at 769-3391 during the day.

Plawecki blasts proposals

State Sen. David A. Plawecki (D-Dearborn Heights), has voiced strong opposition to Senate passage of a bill which will allow property tax increases without a prior vote of the people in four Wayne County cities.

Voting against the measure (SB 250), Plawecki said: "I cannot justify this local property tax increase without a vote by community residents."

"I also am opposed to the fact that the bill singles out cities in Wayne County, when there are at least 14 other cities throughout the state with property tax levies below the minimum levy of 10 mills required in the bill," added the Dearborn Heights Democrat.

According to terms of the legislation, property tax levies would be permitted to increase one mill annually, by an affirmative vote of city council members, up to a maximum levy of 10 mills.

"The only recourse a citizen has under this bill is to try to organize a petition drive to block a city-council ordered increase," said Plawecki.

One provision in the bill permits citizens 90 days in which to petition for a public referendum on the increase.

Currently, the maximum charter-authorized tax levies in the four Wayne communities involved are: Taylor, 9.5 mills; Dearborn Heights, 8.5 mills; Livonia, 6 mills and Westland, 8 mills.

Panel adopts breakfast plan amendment

The House Education Committee has adopted and reported out amendments that would make school breakfast programs optional in Michigan, to be offered upon the decision of local boards of education. The committee re-affirmed the requirement that all K-12 districts must offer lunch programs in all public schools, but extended the deadline for compliance from Oct. 1, 1977 to October 1, 1978. "This has been an extremely controversial and emotional issue and one that deserves clarification," said Rep. Robert C. Law (R-36th District), a member of the House Education Committee. "Under a law adopted last session and scheduled to take effect this coming Oct. 1, all schools were required to offer lunch programs. Those schools where more than 20 percent of the children were eligible for free or reduced-price lunches also were required to offer breakfast programs. The committee maintained the lunch program requirement, but extended its deadline — largely in recognition of the fact that needed assurances of promised state funding for equipment and capital outlay costs still must be made. "The committee deleted the requirement that certain schools provide breakfast programs and left this to the option of local boards — largely in response to testimony concerning unforeseen difficulties and expense from affected school districts. "Existing breakfast programs, offered by local choice, are of course not affected. Neither are potential breakfast programs in other local districts where the need can be demonstrated. But the committee simply felt that a state-wide mandate was not appropriate in this case."

The Education Committee also took action to exempt K-6 and K-8 districts from lunch-program requirements.

"It does not make sense for the state to finance the construction of kitchens in 1-room schoolhouses," Law said. "Many of these districts, with only 15 or 20 pupils, are in remote locations and have had difficulty getting even milk delivered in the small quantities needed."

The Education Committee's action came in reporting out a bill, Senate Bill No. 170, that makes a variety of technical corrections in the School Code of 1976.

"One other charge of interest and importance to the school districts was an amendment to make the taking of a school census optional," Law said. "Some years back, when the school census required, the legislature discovered that it served very little useful purpose and deleted the requirement. Somehow, although most legislators had the impression that existing procedures were merely being formalized and legalized, the School Code of 1976 now is being interpreted as making the census mandatory again. "The committee amendments would make it unmistakably clear that a district may or may not take a census, at the option of its locally-elected board.

Summer school set up for performing arts

The eighth Summer School for the Performing Arts will be held at Marygrove College from June 27 through Aug. 5. Ballet, tap, modern dance and jazz will be offered in three 2-week sessions. Classes may be taken for college credit.

There also are modern dance classes open to children ages 9 to 13 and creative movement classes for students in the 5- to 8-year-old bracket.

Workshops in Israeli Folk Dance will be offered on June 28, June 30 and July 5 and 7. Fee for each workshop is $2.50. Special Ballet Workshops will be held on July 16 and 17. Fee is $5.

Guest artists for the summer program will include Moshiko Halevy who was principal dancer of "Inbal", the Yeminite dance theatre of Israel.

Anne Frances Hebard took her dance training at the Arts Educational Trust in London, where she later taught ballet, modern and character dance.

David Howard, a former soloist with London's Royal Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada, will return as guest instructor in the Marygrove summer program.

Paul Sanasardo also returns for a third residency with the summer school. Prior to the formation of the Paul Sanasardo Dance Company in 1963, he danced with the Washington Dance Theatre and the Anna Sokolow Dance Company.

Sergiu Stefanschi has performed with the National Ballet of Canada since 1971. His earlier engagements took him to Paris, Moscow and Leningrad where he danced with the Bolshoi and Kirov companies.

Pauline Koner is an adjunct professor at Brooklyn College School of the Performing Arts. She has performed throughout the world and has taught in the United States, South America and the Philippines.

Jacob Lascu is an associate director, resident choreographer and balletmaster for "Dance Detroit", the resident company of the Marygrove College dance program.

Resident faculty are Stephanie Katz, Alana Barter, Robert Gatzke and JoAnn Cusmano.

For more information or a descriptive brochure, call the Continuing Education Office at Marygrove College at 862-8000, ext. 240.

Ford legislation geared to chemical contaminations

Joined by 11 co-sponsors, Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has introduced legislation to establish an effective federal program to protect the public and the environment for such chemical contamination as Michigan's recent PBB problem.

The bill, introduced earlier in the Senate by Sen. Donald Riegle, is entitled the "Chemical Emergency Response Team Act", and would authorize an interagency federal strike force to identify, control and eliminate contamination.

Joining Congressman Ford as co-sponsors were a bi-partisan group which includes Congressmen James Blanchard, David E. Bonior, William M. Brodhead, Bob Carr, Charles C. Diggs, John D. Dingell, Dale E. Kildee, Lucien Nedzi, Philip Ruppe and Bob Traxler, all of Michigan, and John E. Moss of California, who chairs the Investigation and Oversight Subcommittee of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, to which the bill has been assigned.

The Ford-Riegle Bill is a direct outgrowth of state-wide hearings held earlier this year by Sen. Riegle and Robert P. Griffin into the Michigan PBB situation.

"These hearings told us that we now have no single governmental agency that can effectively protect us from such chemical contamination," Congressman Ford said. "Even after PBB found its way into the food chain, there still was no coordinated effort to protect the public for over a year."

Congressman Ford said the federal strike force authorized by the Ford-Riegle bill would have both authority and responsibility for preventing similar disasters, if possible, and to move in quickly, if they do occur.

The strike force would be under the direct supervision of the Environmental Protection Agency. "The need for this legislation," Congressman Ford said, "is shown" by the tremendous growth of the chemical industry in recent years. Production of synthetic organic chemicals has expanded by 233 percent in the past decade. "We estimate that there already are 2,000,000 recognized chemical compounds, and another 250,000 are developed every year. Of these, some 1,000 will end up on the marketplace annually.

"We recognize the vital role that chemical substances play in our economy and our society, but we must also recognize the potential dangers and be prepared to meet them."

Lawn and garden activities: They get you out in the sun

Looking for an excuse to get out for some fun in the sun? Then take these tips on timely lawn and garden activities, courtesy of the extension specialists at Michigan State University:

— Plant dahlias, callas, begonias and calladiums. Mulch dahlias after the plants are well established. Tall varieties should be staked at planting time.

— Prune and fertilize rambler roses after they have flowered.

— Pinch mums to encourage the plants to send out side shoots. To pinch, remove the top one-half inch of each shoot when it is 6 inches long.

— Continue to spray roses to protect them against insects and diseases.

— Set potted azaleas into a shady spot in the garden.

— Plant gladioli through the end of June for continuous supply of cut flowers.

— A poor display from your spring flowering bulbs this year probably means they need thinning and transplanting. Dig them up after the bulb coats turn brown and store them in a cool, dry place until fall. Then replant at proper depth and spacing.

— Take poinsettia cuttings now for blooming plants by Christmas.

— Remove faded flowers and seed heads from spring flowering bulbs. Leave the foliage to manufacture food to build up the bulbs for next year's growth.

— Spray hollyhocks and delphiniums with a fungicide to prevent rust and mildew.

— Plant potted roses in bud or in bloom.

— Remove old flowers from perennials after they have finished blooming.

— Plant petunias, portulaca, impatiens and other annual bedding plants in prepared beds.

— Mow your lawn as often as necessary to avoid cutting off more than 40 percent of the leaf surface at any one mowing.

— Treat fusarium problems in your lawn in late June or early July. Spray with Benomyl, according to label directions. Then water lightly every day through September to help plants with damaged root systems survive.

If your lawn is infested with white grubs, try treating it with diazinon.

— Give lawn areas a light application of nitrogen, about one-half pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet.

— Water lawns once a week in dry weather. Apply enough water to moisten the soil to a depth of five or more inches.

— Late in June, fertilize asparagus. All month, watch for asparagus beetles and their larvae feeding on the ferns and laying eggs on the spears. To prevent defoliation, spray with malathion, Sevin or methoxychlor.

— Check the vegetable garden frequently for aphids, mites, beetles, slugs, caterpillars and other destructive pests. Apply controls early, to keep the pest population from getting out of hand.

— Plant Brussels sprouts, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, Chinese cabbage, endive and kale for a fall vegetable crop. Continue to make small plantings of radishes and leaf lettuce.

— To prevent blossom end rot in tomatoes, water regularly to avoid extreme fluctuations in soil moisture levels.

— Weed, mulch and water the vegetable garden as necessary.

— Thin vegetable seedlings to the proper spacing.

— Water newly transplanted trees and shrubs and other ornamentals as needed.

— Propagate French lilacs, forsythia, weigela and pyracantha in June. Take 6- to 8-inch cuttings from the new growth. Make each cut just below a node. Remove the leaves from the lower half of the cuttings, and remove any flowers or flower buds.

To encourage rooting, dip the cut end in a root hormone before planting in a shady spot in the garden or a well-drained container. Keep the cuttings moist. (Cuttings in pots may be covered with plastic bags for the first two weeks. Punch holes in the bag to allow for fresh air, and make sure the plastic does not touch the cuttings.) Transplant into a desirable spot after four to six weeks. Every cutting you take will not form roots, so it's a good idea to take more than you think you need or want.

— Check ornamentals in June for scale insects on foliage and wood. Spray infested plants with malathion while the insects still are in the crawling stage.

— Trim hedges after they have 6 inches of new growth. Cut off three inches.

Leave plants there

Vacationing outside Michigan this year? Enjoy looking at the native plant life of other parts of the country — and leave it there.

Bringing plants back with you is not a good idea for several reasons, points out Joe Cox, Michigan State University Extension landscape architecture specialist.

First, plants from other regions may not survive in Michigan. Second, plants may harbor destructive insects or diseases.

Weekly watering is enough for the garden

The usual advice on watering your garden is to apply enough water once a week to wet the soil to a depth of 6 inches. If your garden is very big, this can amount to a lot of water.

You can get good crop production and save water, too, by installing a trickle irrigation system.

According to horticulturists at Michigan State University, trickle irrigation uses small amounts of water applied at low pressure to limited areas to prevent moisture deficiency in plants.

A main line — usually a half inch plastic pipe runs from the outdoor faucet to the garden. There, a flow-regulating valve governs the quantity of water delivered to the rows.

Water may be applied to plants by means of tiny plastic tubes or flexible hoses made of black plastic film. The microtubes emit a trickle of water around the roots of each plant or on each hill at a rate of one gallon per hour. The hoses produce a continuous wetted strip.

Lawn and Garden

An alternative to flow-regulating valves and microtubes is pressure compensating emitters that release water at a rate of one or two gallons per hour. They operate at household pressures, and if spaced at 2-foot intervals along the row, they should provide adequate wetting.

It takes much less water to meet plants' needs than you may think, the MSU specialists point out. With trickle irrigation, you apply just enough water exactly where it's needed. If you use a sprinkling system or hand-held hose, you waste a lot of water on the areas between rows where desirable plants can't use it. Because trickle irrigation wets only the soil immediately around crops, the areas between rows stay dry and accessible. They also tend to be relatively weedless.

When and how long a trickle irrigation system needs to run depends on the weather, the moisture-holding capacity of the soil and the crops grown. When rainfall is adequate — one inch or more per week — you need not operate the system at all. During dry times, one hour per day probably is adequate. More water may be needed if the garden soil is sandy or the crops are large.

Garden weed control: Cultural or chemical?

Every vegetable gardener should be as picky control method as he is about the type of plants he puts in his garden, according to A. R. Putnam, horticulturist at Michigan State University. Basically, the home vegetable grower has two choices: cultural or chemical weed control.

The nonchemical methods generally are the least expensive and most practical small gardens. Mulching keeps weed seeds from germinating and smothers existing small weeds. The larger weeds should be removed by hand before mulching. Mulching also helps keep in soil moisture and adds to the appearance of the garden.

Putnam points out that mulching needs to be done only once per growing season, directly after plants have been set out or after vegetable seedlings are about 4 inches high.

The most common mulches are plant materials or organic mulches such as grass clippings, leaves, compost, straw or sphagnum peat moss. Other materials suitable for use in vegetable gardens include sawdust, shredded bark, mushroom compost, peanut hulls and crushed or whole corn cobs.

When mulching with sawdust, corn cobs, straw or shredded bark, gardener should apply a little extra nitrogen fertilizer to prevent nitrogen deficiency. Newspapers can be used, but should be placed several layers thick and anchored securely.

Aluminum foil, fiberglass mats (such as used for building insulation) and black plastic are inorganic mulches. These materials are not derived from plants. The most popular inorganic mulch is black plastic. In the spring, the plastic is spread over the ground and the young plants or seeds are set in the ground through slits in the plastic. Soil can be used to hold down the edges.

Putnam usually advises against using chemical weed control in the home vegetable garden. These substances were designed to kill plants and are only safe around certain plants. If not used with caution, according to label directions, weed killers can damage desirable plants. In many cases, chemical weed control is impossible because there is no one chemical that can be used safely on a variety of plants.

Control beetles

For strong, healthy asparagus plants next year, control asparagus beetles now.

Michigan State University Extension entomologists point out that asparagus beetles can completely defoliate asparagus plants. The foliage produces the food that is stored in the plant roots to provide for next year's growth. Loss of the foliage weakens the plants and reduces next year's yield.

The adult beetles also may spoil this year's crop by laying their eggs on the spears. The eggs are not easy to wash off.

The small, gray larvae resemble caterpillars. Control them and the adult beetles with Sevin, methoxychlor or malathion, following label directions.

Enjoy fresh berries in non-cooked jams

In these days of rising food prices, saving is a positive attribute. So, it's not surprising to hear about the growing interest in "putting up" fresh fruits while they are in good supply. The idea of preserving fresh strawberries, for example, is tempting even to those people who once considered it a tiresome task. But contemporary ways with recipes and easy use of Certo and Sure-Jell fruit pectins make the task a rewarding one. Imagine swirling homemade strawberry jam on toast or muffins when the fresh fruit season is just a pleasant memory.

Make freezer space for two easy no-cook jams, Strawberry Pineapple Jam and Strawberry Peppermint Jam. You don't have to buy special containers because you can reuse small containers not over a pint capacity. Dishwasher-safe plastic containers and glass containers that once held food (instant coffee, jelly and even baby food) should be prepared according to instructions.

Assemble the fully ripened strawberries, utensils and other ingredients. Follow the recipe exactly, using the type of pectin specified. Even though the two commercial fruit pectin products, liquid and powdered, create the same end result, they do differ and their recipes are not interchangeable.

These jams can be stored in the freezer up to six months or in the refrigerator up to three weeks whether freshly made or thawed from freezer storage. Most likely you'll keep a few jars refrigerated for ready enjoyment and others frozen for later. What wiser way to combine the rewards of economy with eating pleasure?

scald and drain containers and lids; or use automatic dishwasher with really hot (150 degrees or higher) rinse water.

Then prepare the fruit. Stem and thoroughly crush, one layer at a time, about 1 quart strawberries. Measure 2 cups into a large bowl or pan. Add pineapple with syrup. Squeeze the juice from 1 lemon; measure 2 tablespoons and add to fruit.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit; let stand 10 minutes. Mix water and fruit pectin in a small saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit mixture. Continue stirring about 3 minutes. (A few sugar crystals will remain.) Ladle quickly into containers. Cover at once with tight lids. Let stand at room temperature until set (may take up to 24 hours); then store in freezer. If jam will be used within 2 or 3 weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator. Makes 6-1/4 cups or about 6 (8 oz.) containers.

Strawberry-peppermint jam

1-3/4 cups prepared fruit (about 1 qt. fully ripe strawberries)

1 tablespoon crushed dried mint leaves

4 cups (1-3/4 lb.) sugar

2 tablespoons lemon juice (1 lemon)

1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the containers. Use only containers 1 pint or less in size that have tight-fitting lids. Wash, scald and drain containers and lids; or use automatic dishwasher with really hot (150 degrees or higher) rinse water.

Then prepare the fruit. Stem and thoroughly crush, one layer at a time, about 1 quart strawberries. Measure 1-3/4 cups into a large bowl or pan. Add mint.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit; let stand 10 minutes. Squeeze the juice from 1 lemon; measure 2 tablespoons and add to fruit pectin in a small bowl. Stir into fruit. Continue stirring about 3 minutes. (A few sugar crystals will remain.) Ladle quickly into containers. Cover at once with tight lids. Let stand at room temperature until set (may take up to 24 hours); then store in freezer. If jam will be used within 2 or 3 weeks, it may be stored in refrigerator.

Strawberry-pineapple jam

2 cups prepared strawberries (about 1 qt. fully ripe strawberries)

1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple with syrup

2 tablespoons lemon juice (1 lemon)

5 cups (2-1/4 lb.) sugar

3/4 cup water

1 box (1-3/4 oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First prepare the containers. Use only containers 1 pint or less in size that have tight-fitting lids. Wash,

For that fresh taste

While fresh strawberries are in good supply, prepare these easy no-cook jam combinations: fresh strawberries with dried mint leaves and sweet fresh strawberries wed to canned, crushed pineapple. Both freezer jams can be made quickly with liquid or powdered fruit pectin to assure a good "set." (Photo Courtesy Certo fruit pectin and Sure-Jell fruit pectin.)

Immediately following, Friar was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force. He is to report to Tindall Air Force Base in Panama City, Fla. in August.

audience at the Belleville Senior Citizens Club meeting last Thursday night at Edgemont School. The well-known local physician was introduced by Fred Hudson of the Michigan Heart Association who outlined the functions and needs of the aging human heart and the help available from the Association.

Dr. Grillo, himself a living proof of recovery from heart problems, graphically explained a balanced health program for Seniors. He illustrated several simple, proven exercises and mentioned many others.

Bicycling is high on the list of suitable exercise but the doctor warned of attacking an exercise program too hard, too fast. He suggested walking for a start. When a Senior can work up to walking one mile in 5 minutes, that is good. Five minutes of fast calisthenics before breakfast should be a health rule, he said.

Frequent checks on blood pressure are needed to catch warning signs of heart problems. The villain, cholesterol in the diet, must be watched. Egg yolks, animal fats, butter, oysters, shrimp, lobster, cheeses, whole milk are definitely to be avoided or eliminated from eating habits if high blood pressure or lipidemia are diagnosed. They clog the blood vessels.

The doctor suggested that three days a week of fasting, taking only water daily, were helpful for persons with high blood pressure or high cholesterol. He gave suggestions for balanced diets using the so-called "basic four" food groups. He answered questions from his appreciative audience at the close of his lecture.

Free blood pressure checks were given by nurses Eva Luper and Marge Lingenfelder, club members.

BPW to present film at June 6 meeting

The next meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 6 at the Faith United Methodist Church in Denton.

The public is invited to view the film "Critical Decisions about Crime" which is part of the program and sponsored by the National Bank of Detroit and the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

The analysis from questionnaires of 53 early showings of the film indicate that no matter if you are young or old, male or female, black or white, if you are concerned about crime, you are likely to favor mandatory minimum sentencing for multiple offenses.

Differences in opinion occur in areas for police protection, employment opportunities, rehabilitation, certainty of punishment, capital punishment and higher taxes for prisons and social service.

Participation of citizens in this survey provides feedback to legislators needed in formulating improvements in our criminal justice system. The public is urged to come, hear and see what information the Criminal Justice Forum is gathering from citizens throughout metropolitan Detroit.

Graham family marks dad's 79th birthday

Dinner guests this past Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Graham Jr. and son, David, of West Bloomfield were Mr. and Mrs. William Graham, Sr. of Liberty Street; the Harvey Stabnau family of Greylock Street, and Mr. and Mrs. James Graham of Potter Drive.

The get-together was to help William Graham Sr. celebrate his 79th birthday. On their way home they called on friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott in Plymouth where they also saw Mrs. George Chambers. The senior Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Chambers were schoolmates years ago in Scotland.

Recent weekend guests of Mrs. Henry Sager and her brother, Marvin Meerse of Columbia Avenue were Mr. and Mrs. Jae Soon Song and baby Paul of Los Angeles, Calif.

While in town the Songs visited several other friends.

This past Monday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mc Kelvey of Bemis Road entertained a friend, Mrs. Doris Jones of Allen Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potts of Wabash Street and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allen, and son Stevens spent this past Sunday at Mitchell's Bay, Canada visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stambaugh of Edgemont Street spent a week vacationing up north near Manistee where the fish were biting well.

Mrs. Robert Welt of Willis Road,

Mother Advisor of the Rainbow Girls, and Mrs. H. J. Pond of Borgman Road, member of the Rainbow Board, were in Battle Creek recently to attend a Rainbow Grand Reception.

Mrs. Harry Wilkinson of Liberty Street is being visited this week by a friend, Mrs. Pauline Dingerson of Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Dingerson is formerly from Detroit and a friend of long standing.

Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street had surgery this Monday at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor and expects to be home in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nollf of Edison Avenue were visited this past weekend by their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nollf of Lansing, and their youngest son, Dale, who is attending Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Road were visited for several days this past week by his sister, Mrs. Marguerite Heywood of Farmington Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch of Church Street attended the Gem Mineral Show at the Youth Center in Dearborn this past weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ferrett and son Richard of South Street were in the Port Huron area recently to visit relatives. On May 22, the Ferretts had a birthday dinner at their home honoring their son, Bob. The entire family was home to help celebrate the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Richards of Belleville Road were visited this week by their nephew, Foster Kelly of Stockbridge. Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkens of Denton spent an evening at the Richards' home recently.

Couple to marry on September 10

Holy Trinity Chapel on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti has been reserved for the Sept. 10 wedding of Earlene Herbert and Richard C. Baisch, both of Ypsilanti.

Their engagement and nuptial date are announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Herbert of 207 Miles St., Ypsilanti.

Miss Herbert, who resides at 2444 Ellsworth Rd. Ypsilanti, is a 1971 graduate of St. John's High School. She currently is employed by Farmer Jack in Ypsilanti.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baisch of 305 Edison St., Belleville, graduated from Belleville High School in 1973 and is self-employed as a musician with the group, "Chantz."

Over 200 attend fashion show, dinner

St. Anthony's Mothers Club presented its second annual dinner and fashion show May 24 in the parish's Fr. Foltz Building. Over 200 guests attended the 7 p.m. sit-down dinner prepared by members of the Mothers Club. Mary Duff and Carol Sampson chaired the kitchen detail with assistance from Karen Briones, Kathy Bury and Sharon Collins and special guest cook, Grace Balaythy. The menu featured homemade Swiss steak and all the trimmings served by Jane Atwell, Claudia Collins, Cathy, Lisa, Jackie and Shirley Gignac, Betsy and Cindy Nota, Carolyn Bryan, Marlene Daley, Barbara Pieche, Dianne Schurr, Carol Hardy and Margaret Zachechowski. Carol Kasperrek and Sophie Zoller co-chaired the bevy of waitresses.

Titled "Summer Daze", the show was coordinated by Kathy Rennell and included fashions from Kureth's Apparel Shop and Manning's of Belleville and Van Horn's of Lakewood Shopping Center.

Appearing as models in the family-type presentation were Harold Ackron, Agnes Cook, Mike Daley, Donna Doane, Kim Eichold, Mary Ann Emerson, Pat Flavell and Joyce Gleason. Others promenading down the run-way were Kati Gleason, Sue Harner, Phyllis Johnson, Nancy Kahn, Pat Korgal, Carolyn Larsen, Linda Le Blanc, Phil Le Bar and Michelle Larkin.

Completing the roster were Michael Loria, Diane Memering, Everette Miller, Keri Moser, Anna Ostrowski, Jim Stimach, Barbara Stimach, Kay Stopa, Bob Tontalo and George Tozer.

Georgia Gramlich, chairman of the spring program, held drawings for door prizes throughout the evening. Connie Cook was the winner of the raffle, a portable television set. Others having a hand in the success of the show were Mary Herring and Michele Bouhana, models; Judy Mrekvicska, tickets; Enrica Hensley, raffle; Jean Koski, Jane Atwell and Shirley Gignac, decorations; Sharon Collins, favors; Barbara Stimach, make-up; Sophie Zoller, programs with art work by Debbie Griffith; Sandy Ackron, Linda Sewell, Pauline Womac, Audrey Babik and Mary Moser, set-up; Kathy Bury, phone calls; John Duff, lighting; Shirley Gignac and Judy Pappas, clean-up, and Mary Witters, door prizes.

Cousins born a week apart; they're Mandy and Matthew

Two sisters, Marsha Crow Harden and Susan Crow Holoopeter missed being hospital roommates by just a few days, their babies being born just one week apart at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

The first to arrive was seven pound - six ounce Amanda Rae Harden who made her debut at 12:20 a.m. April 25. Her birth is proudly announced by her 3-year-old brother, Mark Douglas Harden II, and his parents, Mark and Marsha Harden of 79 Henry St., Belleville.

The newcomer, who is being called "Mandy", is the first granddaughter and third grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crow of Romulus and the fifth for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harden of Belleville.

The baby's great-grandparents are Mrs. Lillian Crow and Mrs. O. E. Johnson, both of Decatur, Ala.; Mrs. Ethel Harden of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Burton of Largo, Fla.

The Robert Crow's fourth grandchild making his appearance one week later, was the seven pound -10 ounce son born May 2 to Marty and Susan Holoopeter of Buchanan, Mich.

Titled "Matthew Aaron", the new heir's arrival time was 12:35 p.m. He and his mother were welcomed home by 2-year-old David Paul Holoopeter.

The boys' paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Leach, reside in Broken Arrow, Okla.

Their maternal great-grandparents, living in Decatur, Ala. are Mrs. O. E. Johnson and Mrs. Lillian Crow. On their father's side, they include Mr. and Mrs. Norman Holoopeter of Rockton, Pa. and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leach of Youngstown, Ohio.

IS A FUNERAL NECESSARY?

Death is one of the most difficult losses we can experience — especially the death of a family member or spouse.

The wake and funeral services can be "tools" that help us accept the fact of death and permanent separation as the real thing. The wake becomes a time of consolation to those who have experienced the loss — a time for friends to SHARE their grief.

The funeral helps us remember the life of the lost one. It provides strength for the family and friends and communicates to all those attending that this life is now permanently separated from ours.

It is my experience that some who do not attend the funeral of a loved and close one suffer more afterwards. The funeral can become the first stepping stone to the rebuilding of our own lives without the presence of the deceased.

Call us if you'd like more helpful information and booklets on the subject of funerals.

Boss-secretary banquet hosted by VBAES

The Van Buren Association of Educational Secretaries (VBAES) played host this year at the Wayne County Association of Educational Secretaries' Boss-Secretary Banquet.

Held at the Airport Hilton Inn May 19, the dinner party was represented by 25 districts with a total of 594 reservations, 53 from Van Buren Schools. This is an annual event for which the secretaries pay to take their bosses out to dinner.

President of the VBAES and chairperson of the banquet was Edna Mae Florian with Trudy Bohms co-chairing. Mrs. Florian extended the welcome after which Superintendent of Van Buren Schools Dale Kaulitz gave the opening remarks. The invocation was given by The Rev. Joy E. Arthur of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

The theme for the evening was "A Night on the Town" with decorations relating to Las Vegas. Donations were solicited from various clubs in Las Vegas; The Hacienda awarding three days and two nights as a grand prize which was won by Marie Faust McManus of Dearborn Heights.

The Hilton presented a complimentary night for two at their hotel and provided some 382 carnations for all the women present.

After-dinner entertainment featured the Dixie Land Five and Babe Smith. Some 56 door prizes awarded were donated by VBAES members and local merchants in the area.

Van Buren contingent

Among the group of 53 representing the Van Buren Schools at the annual Boss-Secretary Banquet (for which the women picked up the tab) were Doug Brown (front, from left), Director of Curriculum for Van Buren Schools; his secretary, Mildred Baker, and (face hidden) Bruce Maslin, director of compensatory education. Seated

WCAES president

The president of the Wayne County Association of Education Secretaries, Ernestine Arrington of Westwood Public Schools, made the introductions at the May 19 banquet which paid tribute to all the "bosses" in the Wayne County School System.

Official greeters

The president of the Van Buren Association of Educational Secretaries, Edna Mae Florian, was in charge of the Annual Boss-Secretary Banquet held May 19 at the Metro Hilton in Romulus. She extended the welcome to the 594 guests who represented some 25 districts in the association. Dale Kaulitz, superintendent of Van Buren Public Schools, was on hand to greet the group.

The gals treated

Sharing the long table reserved for the Van Buren conclave were Pat Gordon (facing the camera, from right), compensatory education secretary; Bob Crain, head of special services; Jim Richendollar, principal of North Junior High School; Harry Hidenfelter, athletic director; and Ed Steinman, director of counseling. The men were treated to a dinner of chicken cordon bleu and presented with carnation boutonnieres from their respective secretaries at the Metro Hilton Inn of Romulus May 19.

Bosses were guests

The Van Buren Association of Education Secretaries (VBAES) hosted this year's Boss-Secretary Banquet held May 19 at the Metro Hilton Inn. "A Night on the Town", the evening theme, was personified by Lee Robson (from left) and her boss, Tom McClenon, principal of Sumpter Elementary School; Ruth Clift and her boss, Bill Chizmar of Elwell Elementary School; Bill

Leftover roast beef great for sandwiches

The remains of Sunday's roast beef dinner can be converted into an appetizing sandwich pleaser with ease when creativity takes over. For slices of cooked beef provide ample opportunity to route flavorful foods into great hot or cold sandwich combinations.

For a light yet satisfying supper, try this appetite arouser, advises Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Sunday Supper Sandwich

- two-thirds to ¾ pound sliced cooked roast beef
- 4 slices bread
- butter or margarine
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
- 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese

- 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon snipped parsley

Toast bread on one side. Butter untoasted side and top with slices of meat. Cream together cream cheese, blue cheese, onion and mustard. Place 2 tablespoons mixture on each sandwich and spread to within ½ inch of edge of meat. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Sprinkle parsley on top. 4 servings.

He's named Chad Aaron

"— and baby makes three" is the tune being hummed, whistled and sung these beautiful spring days at the Wayne home of Danny and Jill Knox who reside at 3618 Swanson Street.

Making the Knoxes into a family was their 6 lb., 13½ oz. son who arrived at 6:45 a.m. May 21 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. The newcomer was titled "Chad Aaron." His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winisky and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knox, all of Belleville. Also proud of their great-grandson are Mr. and Mrs. Comer Osborne and Mrs. Louise Demski, also of Belleville.

The new mother is the former Jill Winisky.

'Skip' is a no-no, but it still comes in

It's that time of year again when "skip" comes rolling in. There are many people who find this exciting (even though it's illegal to talk skip) and a lot of people who find it just plain aggravating. For those of you who don't understand what skip is, it's a change in the atmospheric conditions which makes it easier, especially for those using beams and linears, to talk from one state to another.

While skip is on it's way in the noise level on your radio will be unbelievable. A 10-pound noise level will not be uncommon. I have found that during this time of year it's pretty hard to get out on your radio at all.

Just this last weekend I was copying the mail on Channel 7 when I heard the State of Mississippi coming in like a local. It's tempting to go back to them but, FCC says that's a no-no, same goes for those using the linears. It won't be unusual to try to help someone with some local information, and then find out that they are in California while you're in Michigan, and believe me it has happened.

The best thing to do is to try to put up with it the best you can because your only other alternative is to shut down your radio.

Q: My wife and I monitor Channel 9 to assist motorists in the Romulus area. We are having trouble with channel wash from Channel 10 from local CBers in Romulus, running 150 percent modulation. Do you have any suggestions on how we can eliminate this problem?

A: I have sat down many nights and tried to monitor Channel 9 and believe me, I do know what you are talking about. Channel wash is a definite problem, especially when it blocks out Channel 9, the emergency channel. Since I live in the Romulus area, your problem also is mine.

The first thing you could try would be to find out who is causing the wash. If you can get their call letters you can send a letter to the FCC explaining the problem. Unfortunately, you probably will have to send more than one letter, but eventually some action will be taken.

If you don't get any satisfaction, you can always try to reason with the person causing the problem. Once again, unfortunately, this usually doesn't work too well because of the fact that there are numerous people who just don't care. Some take the attitude that "if it's washing, it's working." By letting some of these people know that they are interfering with your transmissions, all you do is send them on an ego trip.

Usually in the case of neighbors and friends a mutual agreement between them to back it down is all that is needed. In your case I'm afraid that there is no easy solution. About all you can do is grin and bear it, if all else fails.

This week the roving ear tuned in on Channel 19 one morning. There was a guest agitator on the channel making it impossible for any mobiles to talk, including mine. I couldn't believe my radio said some of the things it did. It made a lot of people's ears burn, but then I guess Lucifer the Devil is accustomed to that sort of thing.

Come on good buddies, let me know what you want to read about in this column or let's hear about any upcoming CB events taking place. Write to: Nightbird c-o Associated Newspapers Inc., 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne, 48184 or call 942-0299.

For, about seniors

Field trips popular with 'J' seniors

By MAUREEN BEATTY

The Wayne County Office On Aging's monthly field trips are a very popular adjunct to the nutrition program. Because transportation funds are provided by Title VII of The Older Americans Act, the trips are free of charge to all seniors who participate.

Suggestions for the trips are always welcomed, and each site manager has a resource guide available, listing many interesting spots to visit. The coordinator for each site (there are five coordinators overseeing 41 sites) makes all the necessary arrangements when a destination has been chosen. The capacity of the buses that are used varies, with the larger buses accommodating 53 passengers. Most trips are planned within a certain radius, keeping the travel time to not more than 2 1/2 hours, one way.

Box lunches can be taken on the trips, or plans can be made to eat out. If the seniors opt for a restaurant meal, usually the most popular choice, then the only expense to them is their meal.

Marilyn Mayberry, the coordinator for J Building, planned a very interesting trip for our seniors recently.

At 9 a.m. on April 19, 43 seniors set out for Lansing via Deluxe Motor Coach. Our first stop was the Capitol Building, where we were greeted by a tour guide and given red, white and blue visitor's tags to wear.

The Capitol Building is beautiful, a must for all Michigan residents to visit. The woodwork, murals and high dome are elegantly preserved. The chandeliers, in both the Senate Chambers and House of Representatives, were of special interest to our group. Ten in all, they are valued at $9,000 each.

Our tour guide was very informative, taking pains to answer all questions asked of him. While he was showing us the Senate Chambers, a representative for Sen. William Faust of the 13th District spent a few moments chatting with us. We were told Sen. Faust has a particular interest in the problems of our senior citizens and is working to help alleviate those problems. Everyone in our group received a booklet on Michigan's Capital, compliments of Sen. Faust, and a 1977 Michigan map, compliments of State Rep. Robert C. Law of the 36th District.

After the tour, we again boarded the bus and drove a short distance to the YWCA for lunch. I had a delicious lunch for under $2, so the complete cost of the trip ran each senior approximately that amount.

Song sheets were passed out on the return trip, and although my group will never be invited to sing publicly, there was no doubt that everyone was having a great time.

Is gala month

June filled with festivals, more festivals

June in Michigan is a gala month from start to finish, filled with festivals and events to please all segments of the populace, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

The flavors and customs of other cultures liven weekends this month, leading off with the German Festival at Yack Arena in Wyandotte and the Irish Festival in Detroit Friday through Sunday. Next come the Hungarians to Yack Arena and the Germans to Detroit June 10-12, followed by the International Festival at the arena and the Italian Festival in Detroit June 17-19. The last weekend of the month, June 24-25, belongs to the Slovaks in Detroit. And for those frequenting the Detroit ethnic festivals, the summer-long weekend events have a new home—adjacent to the IRS Building in the area bounded by Third, Michigan Avenue and the Lodge Freeway Service Drive.

Hot, homemade pretzels and beer, spicy Bavarian foods and chicken barbecues, polkas, "oom-pah" bands and high spirits are some of the ingredients that make the Bavarian Festival in Frankenmuth one of Michigan's most popular ethnic celebrations. Everyone is "willkommen" to enjoy the warmth and charm of old world Bavaria June 12-18.

Everything comes up roses June 2-12 at the Jackson County Rose Festival in Jackson. Highlights include the rose queen pageant, slo-pitch softball tournament, horseshoe pitching contest, the 2-hour 200-unit Rose Parade on June 11, and a "Day in the Park", which encompasses a chicken barbecue and a wide variety of entertainment. Garden tours begin June 11 and continue through the following week. Still on the flower front Mackinac Island blossoms forth June 11-12 with the annual Lilac Festival. Many of Mackinac's lilac trees were brought to the island some 200 years ago by the French and the whole "bloomin'" scene is beautiful to behold. Moving from aromatic to appetite, have you ever tried asparagus cake or cookies, fondue asparagus or pickled asparagus? If not, your chance will come June 10-11 at the National Asparagus Festival in Hart and Shelby. In addition to some very tasty food fare, festival activities will include best ball golf tournaments, an art fair, antique show, parade and glider rides.

Glider rides are a major drawing card at the National Soaring and Hang Gliding Festival June 25-July 4 at Frankfort. But there will be much more too, such as hydroplane races, a skateboard contest, antique auction, log race, western show and fish bake to attract and entertain you.

Davey Crockett and Daniel Boone would feel right at home June 18-19 during the Muzzle Loaders Festival at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, costumed sharpshooters take aim with their muzzle-loading weapons, there's competition between Revolutionary and Civil War cannon, marching bands and special craft displays to recreate America's frontier days.

"The thrill of victory" could well be the motto of the Special Olympics June 3-5 at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant. The accomplishments of the athletes competing in these Olympic games make every participant a winner. Some of the other offerings in June's pot pourri of festivals are: The Bass Festival June 3-5 at Mancelona, Three Corners Village Festival June 4 at Ceresco.

Bayrama June 15-19 at New Baltimore, a summer Festival June 17-19 at Whitmore, International Festival June 24-26 at Grayling, and the Old Time Summer Festival at Greenfield Village June 25 through Sept. 5.

Arts and antiques have their days in June beginning with the Antique Festival at the fairgrounds in Saginaw and the Art Festival on Mackinac Island Saturday and Sunday. The Art Fair at the Institute of Arts in Flint on June 11-12 will feature paintings, sculpture and weaving. One June 12, an Antiques Market will set up shop at the St. Joseph County Fairgrounds in Centerville and June 19 the fairgrounds in Saginaw will be the parking ground for an Antique Auto Show and Swap Meet. Another Antique Auto Show is set for June 25 on Dock No. 2 in St. Ignace. And the Detroit Arts Festival in Harmonie Park will be June 25-26.

On the sport scene the Au Train Canoe Races launches June 18 at Au Train; the Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament "tees up" at the Belvedere Golf Course in Charlevoix on June 21-25; it's Martial Arts Day June 25 at Yack Arena in Wyandotte; and lots of Tiger baseball for hot dog and "kill the umpire" fans.

Of course, that's not all that Michigan has to offer to those who want to get out and do in June. To make sure you don't miss your thing, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909.

District playoff fever hits area

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

The race for the coveted state baseball championships is on. And at least seven area teams, including Wayne Memorial, a Class

A state semi-finalist last year, will be able to battle for district tournament titles which will be placed on the block on Saturday.

Wayne assured itself of a district playoff berth last Saturday by knocking off a stubborn Ypsilanti 2-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Donnie Johnson.

Johnson picked up his second playoff win — he beat Adrian in the pre-district — tossing a three-hitter against the Braves. He also fanned seven and walked three.

Loser Marty Jeppeson gave up six hits, fanned 12 and walked none.

Wayne scored the first run of the game in the fifth when Jim Canfield led off with a single, only the second hit off of Jeppeson, then Pat Bledsoe attempted to sacrifice, forcing Canfield at second. Craig Green drilled a clean single to right centerfield and Jeppeson then unleashed a wild pitch, moving the runners up.

Tim Clark tapped back to the mound and Jeppeson slow backhanded throw helped Wayne get the go-ahead run.

But Ypsilanti, without the aid of a hit, scored the equalizer in the sixth, setting the stage for a nail-biting finish.

Wayne scored what proved to be the final and decisive run in the sixth when Doug McGill belted a leadoff double over the left-fielder's head, was sacrificed to third by Billy Crews and scored on Don Johnson's game-winning double.

The victory was Coach Jim Chronowski and the Zebras' ticket to Belleville where they will play the winner of the Temperance and Monroe game on Saturday. In the second game at Belleville Plymouth Canton clashes with natural rival, Plymouth Salem.

Canton ousted host, Belleville 6-2 as winning pitcher Doug Smith scattered six Tiger hits, struck out four and walked six.

Losing pitcher Lance MacArthur was tagged for six runs, whiffed

Keeping a memory alive

Accepting congratulations and the William Elliott Memorial Scholarship from Wayne Memorial High principal George Bell is multi-talented Mike Plungis (at left) who is this year's recipient. Plungis was an All-Area and All-Suburban griddler and a starter in basketball. He is also a member of the National Honor Society and the Student Senate. The son of Mrs. Evelyn Plungis, 33651 Forest, Mike plans to major in business or law at Eastern Michigan University. The Elliott Scholarship, established last year in memory of the popular athletic director and coach, is to assist and encourage some student in their quest for quality education in college.

Cherry Hill thinclads retain Tri-River title for 4th year

Off to a slow start at last Thursday's conference championships, Cherry Hill, the defending Tri-River Conference track and field champ, recovered in time to win its fourth consecutive league title.

"It was close," commented Spartan Coach Joe Grasley afterwards. "I don't know how we pulled it out, but we did and that is what counts."

Cherry Hill finished with 77½ points and with its perfect 7-0 dual meet record managed to stop upset-minded Garden City West which was close on the champs' heels.

West amassed 72 points, five less than the reigning champs; Dearborn Heights Crestwood finished third with 54.

Grasley pointed out that the turning point in the meet was the 440-yard dash where his runners crossed the line second, third and fourth.

"We got 12 points in that event to make up a lot of ground that we lost in earlier events," Grasley said. "We received some unexpected good performances today after early letdowns."

This gal's dreaming of Olympics

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Behind the fragile frame that houses the body, one would not believe there is so much energy within pretty Kim Willis of Inkster.

And while that body is at the mercy of unpredictability, Kim has set a vigorous pace to make sure she is with the U.S. Olympic delegation in Moscow in 1980.

"Kim has tremendous potential in track," said Kim's father, Nelson Willis, who served as Taylor Truman's first head basketball coach and remains as a teacher in that downriver community. "She aspires to go to Moscow and we're doing everything to make sure her aspirations are realized," he said.

Exposed to a steady diet of athletics because of her father, a former Inkster High basketball and track star, Kim has already earned a niche of prominence in the world of track.

She was voted the Most Valuable Player on Southgate

Aquinas, which finished second to perennial champ, Bishop Borgess at the recent Catholic Championships.

Miss Willis captured the regional low hurdles title at Southgate Schafer, covering the distance in a respectable 14.6. She also teamed with Sue Eberingham, Sue Genovese and Eva Carreathers to win the 880-yard relay in 1:47.0. She can long jump over 17 feet.

However, in order to burst from the penurious field of Olympic hopefuls, Kim attends two-a-day track sessions and seeks out the best there is in track advice.

By 1980, Miss Willis will be 20-years-old and her 5 feet, 11 inch frame must be streamlined to take the pressures of constant competition.

And, like the song says, no one is promising her a rose garden. "It's rough," said Mr. Willis, "but she has set the goal and we're going to help her as much as we can."

That father-daughter conspiracy is shared by Mrs. Willis who makes it clear that both of her daughters have been involved in athletics since they were toddlers.

Yes, there is another Willis who has plans to compete in some far off Olympic. She's already won a gold — 11-year-old Lavetta was the top long jumper at the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department Summer Olympics.

It's a nice start. Wonder where they'll be holding the 1984 Olympics?

Meanwhile, Dave Carlington, a name familiar in these parts, is back in the news.

Carlington, a former Westland John Glenn basketball star, recently graduated from St. Benedictine College of Alabama with a "Cum Laude" engraved on his bachelor of science degree.

An All-Area, All-Stater, Dave made the Dean's List three successive years (1975-76 and 1977) at St. Benedictine and was presented the "Scholar-Athlete Award" upon graduation. The presentation was made at the Saints Annual Sports Banquet.

While not playing or studying, Dave was busy in softball and led the Rollers of Alabama in home runs and runs batted in.

According to Dave's parents, Loren and Mildren Carlington of 36219 Canyon Drive, Dave plans to live in St. Petersburg, Florida for the summer but will return to Westland this fall to enroll either in the University of Detroit Law School or at Central Michigan University.

A final note before we get ready for the hectic weekend baseball playoffs schedule Ed Baum, director of athletics at Romulus for nearly two decades is back in the hospital. He's suffering from a back ailment that has plagued him in recent years.

Ed's in room 509 at Wyandotte General Hospital. Hope he recovers soon.

Wayne '9' captures title

Zebras rule Great Lakes '8'

With an awesome display of pitching strength, Wayne Memorial stashed away its first Great Lakes 8

Conference baseball title outright last week by blanking Wyandotte and burying Lincoln Park.

With two games left in the conference season, Wayne has amassed a 10-2 record, three victories more than its closest rival, Taylor Truan. "It's nice to win the title," said Jim Chronowski, Wayne High's skipper. "This is the first time we have won it outright, though we shared the championship two years ago with Wyandotte."

"However, the season isn't over yet," stressed Chronowski. "We have the playoffs ahead of us and we're going to have to play them one at a time from here on in."

Pat Bledsoe iced it for the Zebras when he pitched his team to a 11-2 victory over Lincoln Park last Wednesday. Bledsoe tossed a four-hitter, struck out four and walked three to increase his personal record to 6-1 on the season.

Bledsoe, a sturdy righthander who has signed a national letter of intent to attend Eastern Michigan University, has 5-1 league record, more wins of any pitcher in the league.

Bledsoe also helped his own cause by drilling a two-run homer in the third, crossing the plate behind Jim Lentine who ran for Jim Canfield. Canfield was lifted after he was safe on an error.

Doug McGill continued his torrid batting pace as he chalked up three more hits in four trips. He belted two triples and accounted for two RBI's.

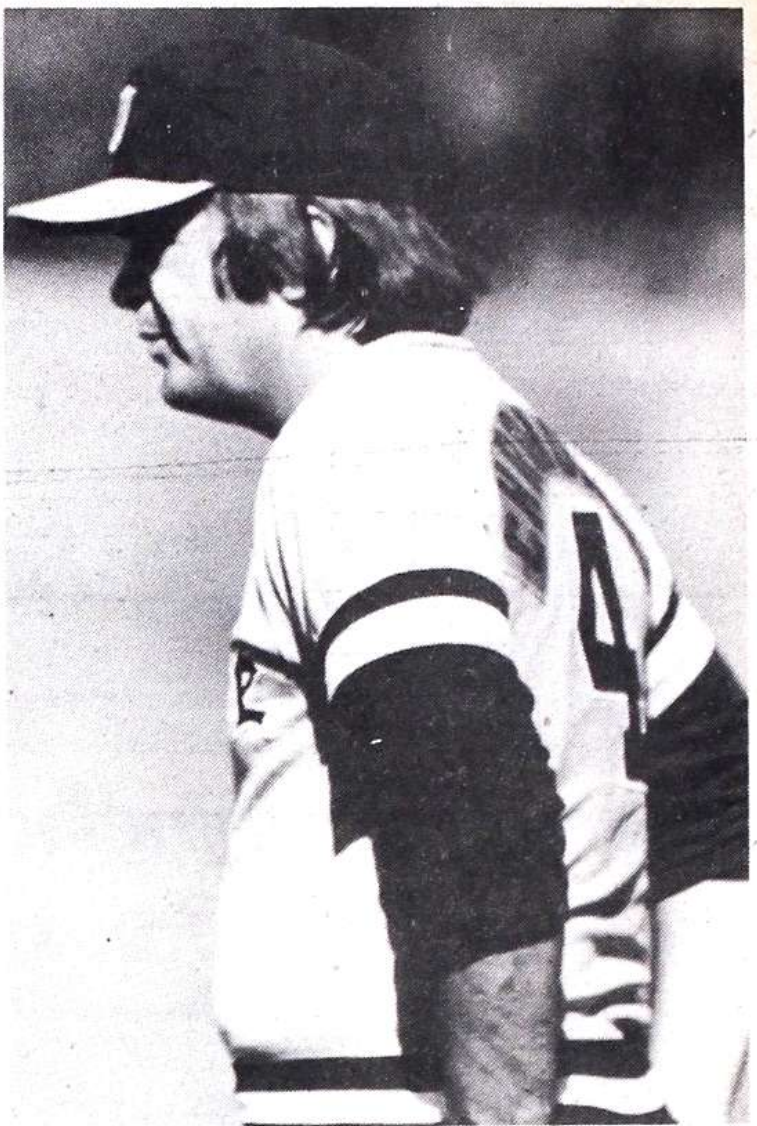

Bill Crews and Donnie Johnson each had two hits for the Zebras.

Earlier in the week Johnson threw a two-hitter at Wyandotte and shut then Bruins out 6-0. His ERA (earned run average) dipped to a fantastic 0.88 and has now moved into the strikeout lead in the conference with 49.

Johnson also has a 6-1 over-all record and has won three of his four league starts.

Wayne exploded for five runs in the third inning to rout their rivals. That inning went like this: Bledsoe singled to lead off and advanced to second with a pickoff attempt backfired, Mike Paz was safe on an error, Bledsoe stopping at third and Jerry Smart beat out a slow grounder for an infield hit.

With bases loaded, Crews then drilled a two-run single and Johnson laced a run-scoring single. Canfield rounded out the scoring with a two-run double.

Winning touch

With one goal accomplished — winning the Great Lakes 8 Conference championship outright, Wayne Memorial Coach Jim Chronowski and his staff look ahead to their next challenge: the Class A district playoffs and the state tournament. Last year's semi-finalist began its bid for the district title by beating Adrian. It has Ypsilanti and the group at the Belleville district to think about next.

Hawley resigns as head cage coach at Wayne High

Wayne Memorial is in the market for a head basketball coach.

Bill Hawley, who serves as the high school's athletic director and has coached basketball for the past nine years — the last six as head varsity coach — has stepped down to devote all of his time to the athletic directorship.

"It was a difficult decision for me to make because I love basketball and the people associated with it," said Hawley. "However, the demands and the responsibilities of the entire athletic program come first."

Hawley, 37, assumed the dual role of athletic director and head cage coach in 1976. Last year, the Zebras posted an 8-12 record but six of those losses were by less than six points.

Hawley's team won the Mid-Wayne Conference championship during the 1973-74 season and, competing in the Great Lakes 8 Conference the past four years, his best record was during the 1974-75 year when the Zebras finished second.

A successor hasn't been named, however, Hawley did stress that the administration is looking within the school system to find a replacement.

"I feel we have some outstanding coaches within our system," Hawley said, "and we are looking at our junior high schools and the high school talent for a candidate."

Romulus thinclads snap Jackson Western streak

With one meet left on its schedule, Romulus has assured itself of its best track season in recent years. Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagles jolted Jackson Western 92-66, cutting Western's seven meet winning streak. The victory boosted Romulus' record last week to 8-2 on the year. Romulus was to end the 1977 campaign Tuesday night against Lincoln Park.

"This is definitely our best season in at least 10 years," said Wilkerson. "And, one of the bright spots is that many of our athletes will be back next year."

Romulus took only six of the 16 events but assured itself of the victory with its depth.

Earl Wilkins' performance in the high jump tied Romulus' record in the event. He cleared 6 feet, 4 inches.

The season is over for Romulus trackmen with the Larry Young who was to be competing in the state finals this weekend at Flint.

Kalamazoo gives McBride MVP award

J.P. MCBRIDE

Senior J. P. McBride, a former All-Area cager and catcher from Westland John Glenn, was named as Kalamazoo College's top baseball player for the 1977 season.

McBride, who caught and played the infield for the Hornets, batted over .300 in his final year in a Kalamazoo baseball uniform.

Kalamazoo wound up the 1977 season sixth in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) conference race posting a 4-8 record.

The Hornets were 5-15 over-all for the season.

McBride also received the traditional Kalamazoo College varsity blanket, which is awarded to athletes who have won four letters in one sport.

39th straight victory for Spartan thinclads

In that pivotal 440-yard event, John Ireland gave the Spartans a second (52.2), followed by teammates Brian Coughenour (52.2) and Daryl Gallant (52.4).

Clarence Guyton was Cherry Hill's lone individual event winner. Guyton covered the high hurdles in the winning time of 15.0.

The Spartans put together a championship 880-yard relay team (1:34.8) with Ivy Gregory, John Ireland, Darryl Gallant and Coughenour. The team of Gregory, Ken Wilson, Tom Minor and Ed

Salveti won the 440-yard relay in 45.1.

Cherry Hill brought the curtains down to a perfect 9-0 season and have won their last 32 consecutive dual meets and the last four conference championships.

"We started off the year rebuilding because we were hit hard by graduation," Grasley said, "but, a lot of young and promising sophomores filled in the ranks and came through."

"These kids just didn't want to lose," Grasley added, "and I have never been any prouder than I am of his group of athletes."

BOB HOLMES

Tired of chasing Westland John Glenn in the Northwest Suburban the past three years, Livonia Franklin ended the Westlanders' reign as league champs on Thursday.

Coach Bob Holmes' Patriots garnered 87 team points and put their claim to eight out of a possible 16 gold medals to capture the conference track & field championships outright.

Glenn dethroned

Franklin rules Northwest Suburban track world

It was the fourth time in Holmes' nine year tenure as head coach that his teams have won the title.

"We're very pleased to have won it," Holmes said after a long day's work in temperatures hitting over 90 degrees. "We've finished second to Glenn for the last two years at least, and I guess we just got tired of chasing them."

Phil Yuhasz, a senior, and Dave Bowen, a junior, accounted for four of the eight Franklin first places.

Yuhasz beat North Farmington's Cohen to the wire in the 100-yard dash by one-tenth of a second (10.0) for his first gold, then came back and led teammate Bowen across the finish line for the 220. The winner's time was clocked at 22.9.

Yuhasz also teamed with Jim Boldt, Nate Kean, and Larry Acton to win the 880-yard relay. They were given the nod at a crowded finish line which included runners from North and Glenn. All three teams were clocked at 1:32.4.

Bowen, who will be around next year to defend his titles, won the long jump with a leap of 20 feet, 10 inches and the 440-yard dash in 50.3.

The Livonians swept the remaining relays using Boldt, Paul Berry, Tom Lazenby and Keith Kline in the 440-yarder (45.1), and Nate Kean, Tim Rose, Bob Urban and Phil Frusti in the mile relay (3:30.7).

Glenn's Ted Unold climaxed a superb track career in the Northwest by winning golds in both the 880-yard run (1:56.9) and the mile run (4:26.0).

Inkster salvages half of net crown

Though they had lost to arch-rivals, Robichaud, twice during the dual match season, Inkster netters recovered their poise at the Suburban Athletic Conference championships and earned a slice of the title.

Inkster won the league meet but, because Coach George Thompson Jr.'s Vikings had two losses to Robichaud they were forced to settle for a co-championship with the Dearborn Heights' net team.

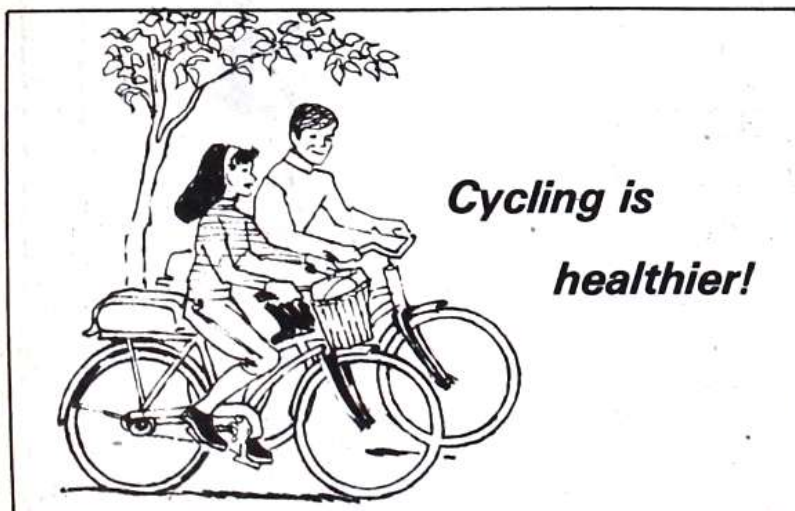

Robichaud carried a perfect 8-0 record into the league meet, having whipped the Vikings twice 4-3 during the regular season.

Inkster also won four of the seven final matches at the league tournament.

Mark Walker and Darrel Willis won the No. 3 and No. 4 singles' titles.

Marvin Hughes and partner Derek Robinson were the top performers at No. 1 doubles while Clarence Nichols teamed with Carl Tompkinson to win the No. 3 doubles.

Tigers host league

Belleville trackmen bow to Trenton in finale, 112-46

Belleville ended the Suburban 8 Conference dual meet phase of the season last Thursday on the short-end of a 112-46 pastings from Trenton.

The loss dipped Coach Dave Medley and the Tigers' record to 2-9 on the season.

"Our seniors just didn't perform up to expectations," said Medley. And when the seniors don't do the job the results are horrendous.

Belleville took only four of the possible 16 first places. Don Lewis took two of those as he was clocked in the winning time of 10.6 for the 220-yard dash, then ran a 23.8 for the 220.

Bradley Bullock's 52.1 gave the Tigers a first in the 440-yard dash and the Belleville mile relay team of Bullock, Fred Gorney, Keith Williams and Harold Gable placed first with a 3:38.0. Belleville will also host the conference championships on June 1 beginning at 7:30 p.m. for the finals and 3 p.m. for the preliminaries.

Easley's MVP cager

Dennis Easley, a Lake Superior State College freshman from Belleville, was named the recipient of the Terry McDermott Award during the college's recent all-sports banquet. The award is presented annually to the first-year LSSC athlete who in the opinion of the coaches, faculty, and student council exhibits outstanding dedication, determination, self sacrifice and inspiration to his teammates. As a freshman member of the Laker basketball squad this past season, Easley scored 232 points for nine point average and pulled down 145 rebounds from his guard slot. He is a former all-state, All-Area cager from Belleville High School.

Beyer wins regional title; eyes state 'A' tennis crown

Todd Beyer, the first Wayne Memorial tennis player to win a Class A regional title, will head for Midland on Friday to compete in the state finals.

Beyer, ranked among the top 20 sixteen-year-olds in the state, this year, beat Doug Cabillo of Northville to walk off the courts at Plymouth Salem with a regional crown.

He recently won the Great Lakes 8 Conference No. 1 singles' title recently.

"Because he won the regional he will not be pitted against a top seeded player in the first round at the state tournament," said Jack Armstrong, Wayne High coach. "I believe his chances are excellent to finish among the top in the state.

"Todd has a lot of tournament experience behind him," Armstrong added.

Wayne finished fifth at the regional held at Salem. They had nine points. Standing at the top of the line was Livonia Stevenson's whose 16 points gave it the regional crown.

Stevenson was trailed by Nor thville (16), Westland John Glenn

(13) and Churchill (10) in a field of 13 teams.

Wayne had a semi-finalist in Fred Campbell who came within one point of qualifying for the regional. The Zebras also received points from John Houle (No. 2 singles) Jeff Holderness (No. 3 singles) and the No. 1 doubles combination of Gary McGaughey and Keith Lutz.

"We're hoping that Todd's success in the league and regional will give him the confidence to do well at the state," Armstrong pointed out. "One thing for sure - he'll give it his best."

five and walked four before giving way to Jeff Smith in the sixth inning.

Belleville averted the shutout in the bottom of the seventh when the Tigers scored their two runs. Smith issued walks to Rob Laney, Don Walls and Roy Rutherford, then Dan Pavelka laced a two-run single. The Canton hurler got out of trouble by getting Bill Hill to line to center with the bases loaded.

Canton drew blood in the third inning as a walk to Smith, John O'Connell's fielder's choice and a pair of singles by Doug Brickner and Ken Randazzo sandwiched between a balk scored two runs.

In the sixth, the Chiefs exploded for three runs thanks to Scott Collins' one-out double, an error putting John Young on, and a single by pitcher Smith.

"We had our chances to win," said Belleville Coach Dan GFisher. "We just blew them."

Salem edged John Glenn 4-3 to make the showdown with Canton possible.

Glenn blasted Salem starter Tom Chiatlas from the mound in the first inning as the Rockets exploded for three runs to take a 3-1 lead. Craig Walker started the rally when he walked, moved to second on Jim Erwin's single and Mike Bednarski then hit into a fielder's choice which resulted in a throwing error, scoring one run. Mark Grabowski then singled home the second run and Grabowski eventually scored on consecutive wild pitches.

Doug Holloway, who took over from Chiatlas after two were out blanked the Rockets the rest of the way. He was the winning pitcher.

Salem tied the game with two runs in the second and broke the deadlock with the game-winning run in the sixth. The Rocks put that decisive run on the board when Bob Smith singled, was sacrificed by Holloway and was wild-pitched home.

A triple by Dave Midzgorski in the second and Pat McKendry's double and a single by John Lewelling paved the way for the Rocks' two runs.

Bill Bardwell's two-hit pitching performance lifted Livonia Churchill past Dearborn Heights Crestwood 2-0 and into the Class A district tournament at Dearborn. Coach Rog Frayer's Chargers will take on the winner of the Fordson-Livonia Franklin game, set for Wednesday.

Bardwell fanned nine, didn't walk any and boosted his record to 4-3 on the season.

Churchill scored in the opening inning on a leadoff single by Mark Galasson who eventually scored when Bardwell singled.

The Chargers collected an insurance in the second when Mike Devlin singled, moved up on a passed ball and scored on a suicide squeeze bunt.

If Franklin gets past Fordson, Churchill will meet their cross-town rivals at 12:30 p.m.

It will be an "all-Inkster" semi-final at Novi Saturday when Cherry Hill takes on across-Michigan Ave. rival, Inkster High.

Inkster rallied for three runs in the bottom of the sixth to break a 2-all deadlock and beat Riverside 5-2 to advance to the district. Vincent Parker went the distance for Coach Preston James' Vikings as he tossed a two-hitter, struck out five and walked one.

In that sixth, Isaac Jones, walked, stole second and advanced to third on a throwing error, scored when Stacey Bostic successfully put down a bunt. Bostic moved to second on the throw to the plate and Parker singled him home. Parker eventually scored when Jim Hicks singled.

Inkster took a 2-0 first inning lead when Tony Smith walked, stole second and scored on Jones's single to left. Jones came around after a pair of errors.

Cherry Hill qualified for the district's by beating tourney favorite Dearborn Divine Child 8-7 thanks to Mark Lipinski's eight-hit pitching efforts. Lipinski fanned eight and walked four to boat his record to 7-2.

The Spartans held off a Divine Child seventh inning rally which netted the Dearbornites two runs in that last frame. Cherry Hill scored twice in the second and put two runs on the board in each of the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

With two-away in the second, Brian Shuster singled and scored on Jack Slade's first homer of the season. Then, in the fourth, Mike Snyder walked, and was chased home when Rich Rimmel tripped. Rimmel scored on a throwing error.

Cherry Hill went ahead for good in the fifth as Tim Hofner led off with a double, Lipinski singled and Jeff Bilek was safe on an error, loading the bases.

Shuster then hit a grounder which led to two unearned runs.

Mark Buck's first homer of the season gave the Spartans their first run in the sixth and Lipinski singled home Hoffer for what proved to be the winning run.

Legion baseball tryouts set

Final baseball tryouts for the Wayne American Legion Post III team will be held 2 p.m. Sunday at John Glenn High School.

Potential players must bring their birth certificates with them. Players can't be 19 years old on or before Aug. 1.

The team will play in the 16th District League and will be coached by Norm Hoenes, head baseball coach at John Glenn High School.

The first game is scheduled for June 12 when Wayne takes on arch rival, Westland.

AUTO FACTS

By Chester Kosin

Relatively simple things make a car difficult to control, but they are never worth ignoring. Any handling problem can be dangerous, especially in high-speed driving. If you should have such handling problems, or even symptoms of possible problems, these should be attended to at once. Repair and adjustment of the brake system and front-end suspension, however, is a delicate matter and should be left to a specialist.

Before you start any job on your car, pick up parts and accessories from KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! We specialize in quality parts for both foreign and domestic cars. Our knowledgeable staff is always happy to advise do-it-yourselfers on the proper parts for their particular cars, however, if the job is too complicated and you need professional help, visit your local garage or service station mechanic. At KOSIN'S we also have a complete machine shop service. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M.

AUTO TIP:
A bent tire rim can throw a wheel out of balance and cause your whole car to shimmy.

JUST FOR THE KIDS (Of All Ages)

School is out or nearly out and now you are faced with how to occupy the kids all day. You are probably busy lining up a summer schedule that might include swimming lessons, Little League, trips to the park, museums & zoo and then what?

How about a neighborhood backyard circus? Here are some ideas to help you get started.

Create a circus mood with balloons, paper streamers and clown hats. Fill a colored bag for every child with boxes of cracker jacks, animal crackers and pop corn balls.

*Create-A-Circus-Clown. You dip the ice cream scoops in advance and refreeze on cookie sheet. Provide assorted candies, nuts, raisins, etc., for the faces.

*Decorate a Circus Cheeseburger before melting cheese, with "face" of catsup, pickle or frankfurter slices, potato sticks, or relish.

*Make Clown Salads using canned peach or pear halves. Garnish with raisins, strips of cheese, miniature marshmallows, celery sticks, peanuts.

*Jazzy Marshmallows: Pour 1/4 cup milk into cup. Place 2 tablespoons powdered drink mix (cherry, grape or orange) in second cup. Dip marshmallow in milk, roll in drink mix. Let dry on wax paper. Push straw through marshmallow and serve in soda or powdered Pink Lemonade.

CENTER RING CORN DOGS (Makes 8 to 10 Corn Dogs)

1/2 cup flour
1/3 cup yellow cornmeal
1/3 cup Grated Parmesan and Romano Cheese
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
Vegetable Oil
8 to 10 wooden skewers
1 pound frankfurters, wiped dry

Combine dry ingredients. Stir in milk, egg and 1 tablespoon oil. Insert wooden skewer in each frankfurter. Dip in batter, coating completely. Deep fry at 325° (lifting slightly if batter begins to bubble) until golden, about 2 minutes. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot. Refrigerate leftovers.
